Marking Past Tense in Second Language Acquisition Rafael Salaberry, 2008-06-22 This book presents an analysis of the difficulties faced by native speakers of English in the learning of Romance languages While L1 speakers of English may quickly learn to identify and to some extent use the Spanish perfective and imperfective verb endings the L2 representation of tense aspect distinctions among both beginning and advanced learners requires a comprehensive multidimensional analysis Through a detailed examination of new and existing empirical data this book proposes a theoretical analysis of the L2 acquisition of tense aspect marking along the lines of the claim of the default past tense hypothesis This theoretical analysis serves to reconcile competing alternative hypotheses and to highlight potential areas of future research This comprehensive account will be of interest to academics researching second language acquisition and applied linguistics

Breastfeeding and Media Katherine A. Foss, 2017-06-14 This book centers on the role of media in shaping public perceptions of breastfeeding. Drawing from magazines, doctors' office materials, parenting books, television, websites, and other media outlets, Katherine A. Foss explores how historical and contemporary media often undermine breastfeeding efforts with formula marketing and narrow portrayals of nursing women and their experiences. Foss argues that the media's messages play an integral role in setting the standard of public knowledge and attitudes toward breastfeeding as she traces shifting public perceptions of breastfeeding and their corresponding media constructions from the development of commercial formula through contemporary times. This analysis demonstrates how attributions of blame have negatively impacted public health approaches to breastfeeding, thus confronting the misperception that breastfeeding and the failure to breastfeed rest solely on the responsibility of an individual mother.
