Finding Purple America Jon Smith, 2013-05-01 The new southern studies has had an uneasy relationship with both

American studies and the old southern studies In Finding Purple America Jon Smith one of the founders of the new movement locates the source of that unease in the fundamentally antimodern fantasies of both older fields The old southern studies tends to view modernity as a threat to a mystic southern essence a dangerous outside force taking the form of everything from a bulldozer revolution to a national project of forgetting Since the rise of the New Americanists American studies has also imagined itself to be in a permanent crisis mode seeking to affiliate the field and the national essence with youth countercultures that sixties leftists once imagined to be the future Such fantasies Smith argues have resulted in an old southern studies that cannot understand places like Birmingham or Atlanta or cities at all and an American studies that cannot understand red states Most Americans live in neither a comforting premodern Mayberry nor an exciting postmodern Los Angeles but rather in what postcolonialists call alternative modernities and hybrid cultures whose relationships to past and future to stability and change are complex and ambivalent Looking at how the South has played in global metropolitan pop culture since the nineties and at how southern popular and high culture alike have in fact repeatedly embraced urban modernity Smith masterfully weaves together postcolonial theory cultural studies Lacanian psychoanalysis and surprisingly marketing theory to open up the inconveniently in between purple spaces and places that Americanist and southernist fantasies about who we are have so long sought to foreclose

Stop Mugging Grandma Jennie Bristow, 2019-08-13 A decisive intervention in the war between generations asking who stands to gain from conflict between baby boomers and millennials Millennials have been incited to regard their parents generation as entitled and selfish and to blame the baby boomers of the Sixties for the cultural and economic problems of today But is it true that young people have been victimized by their elders In this book Jennie Bristow looks at generational labels and the groups of people they apply to Bristow argues that the prominence and popularity of terms like baby boomer millennial and snowflake in mainstream media operates as a smoke screen directing attention away from important issues such as housing education pensions and employment Bristow systematically disputes the myths that surround the generational war exposing it to be nothing more than a tool by which the political and social elite can avoid public scrutiny With her lively and engaging style Bristow highlights the major issues and concerns surrounding the sociological blame game that always arrive in the same order and each last about twenty years The last of these eras the fourth turning was always the most perilous a period of civic upheaval and national mobilization as traumatic and transformative as the New Deal and World War II the Civil War or the American Revolution Now right on schedule our own fourth turning has arrived And so Neil Howe has returned with an extraordinary new prediction What we see all around us the polarization the growing threat of civil conflict and global war will culminate by the early 2030s in a climax that poses great danger and yet also holds great promise perhaps even bringing on America's next golden age Every generation alive today will play a vital role in determining how this crisis is resolved for good or ill
