Foundation Marlene Dietrich Greta Garbo and Katharine Hepburn all made lasting impressions with the cinematic cross dressing they performed onscreen What few modern viewers realize however is that these seemingly daring performances of the 1930s actually came at the tail end of a long wave of gender bending films that included more than 400 movies featuring women dressed as men Laura Horak spent a decade scouring film archives worldwide looking at American films made between 1908 and 1934 and what she discovered could revolutionize our understanding of gender roles in the early twentieth century Questioning the assumption that cross dressing women were automatically viewed as transgressive she finds that these figures were popularly regarded as wholesome and regularly appeared onscreen in the 1910s thus lending greater respectability to the fledgling film industry Horak also explores how and why this perception of cross dressed women began to change in the 1920s and early 1930s examining how cinema played a pivotal part in the representation of lesbian identity Girls Will Be Boys excavates a rich history of gender bending film roles enabling readers to appreciate the wide array of masculinities that these actresses performed from sentimental boyhood to rugged virility to gentlemanly refinement Taking us on a guided tour through a treasure trove of vintage images Girls Will Be Boys helps us view the histories of gender sexuality and film through fresh eyes

United States marked the beginning of the study of our postindustrial information society Austrian born economist Fritz Machlup had focused his research on the patent system but he came to realize that patents were simply one part of a much bigger knowledge economy He then expanded the scope of his work to evaluate everything from stationery and typewriters to advertising to presidential addresses anything that involved the activity of telling anyone anything The Production and Distribution of Knowledge in the United States then revealed the new and startling shape of the U S economy Machlup s cool appraisal of the data showed that the knowledge industry accounted for nearly 29 percent of the U S gross national product and that 43 percent of the civilian labor force consisted of knowledge transmitters or full time knowledge receivers Indeed the proportion of the labor force involved in the knowledge economy increased from 11 to 32 percent between 1900 and 1959 a monumental shift Beyond documenting this revolution Machlup founded the wholly new field of information economics The transformation to a knowledge economy has resonated throughout the rest of the century especially with the rise of the Internet As two recent observers noted Information goods from movies and music to software code and stock quotes have supplanted industrial goods as the key drivers of world markets Continued study of this change and its effects is testament to Fritz Machlup s pioneering work
