Abstract—Enhancing the scientific and technological security level of national defense science and technology industry (NDSTI) is of great significance to the development of the country. This paper proposes corresponding countermeasures for the security of national defense technology industry to achieve the purpose of improving the scientific and technological security level of NDSTI. This paper sorts out the concept and nature of NDSTI. On this basis, it puts forward the concept of science and technology security in NDSTI, analyzes its role, and finds out the challenges facing the current science and technology security of the national defense technology industry. It mainly includes the increasingly complex national defense science and technology environment, the corresponding regulations are not perfect, the human resources management of related talents is imperfect, and the independent innovation capability is weak. The corresponding improvement measures are proposed in this regard; including construction of national defense science and technology environment, improvement of correlative regulations, improvement of the management level of professional talent, promote the deep development of military and civilian integration.

industrial cluster represented by the nuclear industry, aerospace industry, aviation industry, shipbuilding industry, weapon industry, and electronics industry [1]. It has become a pillar industry for China's scientific and technological innovation, which not only promotes the modernization of national defense construction, but also promotes the development of the national economy. In recent years, national defense policies and government work report frequently refer to the NDSTI, but the official has not clearly defined the concept of NDSTI. Some academics have studied the concept of NDSTI, mainly Defined from the perspective of an industry or a department. For example, Zhang Shaoyong (2009) [1] and Han Xia (2009) [2] believe that the NDSTI is an industrial department and an economics department that develops and produces weapons and equipment products and services for the military; Ren Haiping (2003) [3], Liang Qingwen (2004) [4], Ma Yonghong (2014) [5] believed that the NDSTI is a high-tech industry used to develop and produce military products and civilian products, fulfilling its national defense. The military functions of the construction will also fulfill its economic functions of stimulating the economy. Based on the above viewpoints, it can be seen that China's NDSTI mainly produces military products and provides services to the military. However, as time goes on, in order to meet the needs of social and economic development, the NDSTI has gradually changed to the direction of military and civilian use. The backbone of the national economy.

The science and technology security of the NDSTI is a state of development of the science and technology system of the national defense science and technology industry. That is, the science and technology system of the NDSTI can maintain a safe and effective operation under the action of its own operation or under the external environment. Maintain national interests. The science and technology security of the national defense science and technology industry is a state in which scientific and technological achievements, research and development, and development involving national interests are
