Terror and the Sublime in Art and Critical Theory G. Ray, 2005-09-02 The eleven interconnected essays of this book penetrate the dense historical knots binding terror power and the aesthetic sublime and bring the results to bear on the trauma of September 11 and the subsequent War on Terror Through rigorous critical studies of major works of post 1945 and contemporary culture the book traces transformations in art and critical theory in the aftermath of Auschwitz and Hiroshima Critically engaging with the work of continental philosophers Theodor W Adorno Jacques Derrida and Jean Francois Lyotard and of contemporary artists Joseph Beuys Damien Hirst and Boaz Arad the book confronts the shared cultural conditions that made Auschwitz and Hiroshima possible and offers searching meditations on the structure and meaning of the traumatic historical event Ray argues that globalization cannot be separated from the collective tasks of working through historical genocide He provocatively concludes that the current US led War on Terror must be grasped as a globalized inability to mourn

Sculpture and the Vitrine John C. Welchman, 2017-07-05 Vitrines and glass cabinets are familiar apparatuses that have in large part defined modern modes of display and visibility both within and beyond the museum They separate objects from their contexts group them with other objects both similar and dissimilar and often serve to reinforce their intrinsic or aesthetic values The vitrine has much in common with the picture frame the plinth and the gallery but it has not yet received the kind of detailed art historical and theoretical discussion that has been brought to these other modes of formal display The twelve contributions to this volume examine some of the points of origin of the vitrine and the various relations it brokers with sculpture first in the Wunderkammer and cabinet of curiosities and then in dialog with the development of glazed architecture beginning with Paxton's Crystal Palace 1851 The collection offers close discussions of the role of the vitrine and shop window in the rise of commodity culture and their apposition with Constructivist design in the work of Frederick Kiesler as well as original readings of the use of vitrines in Surrealism and Fluxus and in work by Joseph Beuys Paul Thek Claes Oldenburg and his collaborators Jeff Koons Mike Kelley Dan Graham Vito Acconci Damien Hirst and Josephine Meckseper among others Sculpture and the Vitrine also raises key questions about the nature and implications of vitrinous space including its fronts onto desire and the spectacle transparency and legibility and onto ideas and practices associated with the archive collecting preserving and ordering

Objects as History in

Twentieth-century German Art Peter Chametzky, 2010 This book provides an overview of twentieth century German art focusing on some of the period's key works. In Peter Chametzky's innovative approach these works become representatives rather than representations of twentieth century history. Chametzky draws on both scholarly and popular sources to demonstrate how the works and in some cases the artists themselves interacted with and even enacted historical events, processes and ideas. book jacket

The Aesthetics of Mythmaking in German Postwar Culture André Fischer, 2024-03-15 Myths are a central part of our reality. But merely debunking them lets us forget why they are created in the first place and why we need them. André Fischer draws on key examples from German postwar culture from novelists Hans Henny Jahnn and Hubert Fichte to sculptor and performance artist Joseph Beuys and filmmaker Werner Herzog to show that mythmaking is an indispensable human practice in times of crisis. Against the background of mythologies based in nineteenth century romanticism and their ideological continuation in Nazism, fresh forms of mythmaking in the narrative, visual and performative arts emerged as an aesthetic paradigm in postwar modernism. Boldly rewriting the cultural history of an era and setting in transition, The Aesthetics of Mythmaking in German Postwar Culture counters the predominant narrative of an exclusively rational Vergangenheitsbewältigung coming to terms with the past. Far from being merely reactionary, the turn toward myth offered a dimension of existential orientation that had been neglected by other influential aesthetic paradigms of the postwar period. Fischer's wide-ranging transmedia account offers an inclusive perspective on myth beyond storytelling and instead develops mythopoesis as a formal strategy of modernism at large.

Joseph Beuys Claudia Mesch, 2017-04-15 Joseph Beuys is one of the most important and controversial German artists of the late twentieth century, an artist whose persona and art is so tightly interwoven with Germany's fascist past. Beuys was after all a former soldier in the Third Reich that he has been a problematic figure for postwar and post-reunification Germany. In illuminating the centrality of trauma and the sustained investigation of the notion of art as the two defining threads in Beuys's life and art, this book offers a critical biography that deepens our understanding of his many works and their contribution. Claudia Mesch analyzes the aspects of Beuys's works that have most offended audiences, especially the self-woven legend of redemption that many have felt was a dubious and inappropriate fantasy for a former Nazi soldier to engage. As she argues, however, Beuys's self-mythology confronted post-traumatic life head-on, foregrounding a struggle for psychic recovery. Following Beuys's exhibitions in the 1970s, she traces how he both expanded the art world beyond the established regional centers and paved the way for future artists interested in activism as art. Exploring Beuys's expansive conceptions of what art is and following him into the realms of science, politics and spirituality, Mesch ultimately demonstrates the ways that his own myth-making acted as a positive force in the Germany's postwar reckoning with its past.

Joseph Beuys and the Celtic Wor(l)d Victoria Walters, 2012 During the 1970s the German sculptor Joseph Beuys made a number of trips to Ireland and Scotland This interdisciplinary study of the artist's work in the Celtic world assesses whether the practice shown or developed during these visits could be seen in any sense as a language practice more specifically as a language of healing and whether Beuys could be said to have interpreted and performed notions of Celticity in these places The book reflects on the anthropological aspect of Beuys work and includes interview material with artists who worked with or met him during this time Series European Studies in Culture and Policy Vol 10

The Rise and Fall of American Art, 1940s-1980s Catherine Dossin, 2016-03-03 In The Rise and Fall of American Art 1940s 1980s Catherine Dossin challenges the now mythic perception of New York as the undisputed center of the art world between the end of World War II and the fall of the Berlin Wall a position of power that brought the city prestige money and historical recognition Dossin reconstructs the concrete factors that led to the shift of international attention from Paris to New York in the 1950s and documents how peripheries such as Italy Belgium and West Germany exerted a decisive influence on this displacement of power As the US economy sank into recession in the 1970s however American artists and dealers became increasingly dependent on the support of Western Europeans and cities like Cologne and Turin emerged as major commercial and artistic hubs a development that enabled European artists to return to the forefront of the international art scene in the 1980s Dossin analyses in detail these changing distributions of geopolitical and symbolic power in the Western art worlds a story that spans two continents forty years and hundreds of actors Her transnational and interdisciplinary study provides an original and welcome supplement to more traditional formal and national readings of the period Tacita
