The New Empire of the Rockies Steven F. Mehls, 1984 This volume represents the fourth in a series of five Class 1 Overview histories prepared by the Colorado State Office Bureau of Land Management The purpose of these works is to develop a synthetic history of a given area in order to provide our managers and staff specialists with a baseline overview of the history of a district. It must be noted that the major cities like Denver, Colorado Springs, Boulder, Fort Collins, and Greeley are only mentioned. This is because there is no public land in these places and the Bureau's mandate is to manage the public lands, not private estates.

Foreword The Valley of Opportunity Steven F. Mehls, 1982. This publication represents the latest Class I History to be written for the western slope of Colorado. Our three districts in this region of Colorado now have histories specifically for them. Such works provide a valuable and needed synthesis of history and literature for these areas and also gives our managers data that are used on a daily basis for land use decision making. Multiple land use is a Bureau mission that is being met. Oil and gas, coal, oil shale, and other energy minerals, not to mention rights of ways, grazing programs, recreation projects, and land use planning are all supported by histories such as this. Resource Management Plans and subsequent Environmental Impact Statements that are produced for the Bureau's Area Offices are the foundations for long term land use management. The Glenwood Springs Colorado Resource Management Plan Environmental Impact Statement is a Bureau pilot document and serves as a management tool for the Glenwood Springs Resource Area. This history, Valley of Opportunity, supports the Resource Management Plan. In addition, a history provides background and support for the upcoming Grand Junction Resource Area Management Plan Environmental Impact Statement. The Valley of Opportunity has already been used for Oil Shale Environmental Statements and for the Federal Coal Leasing Program in the Grand Junction Colorado District. Truly, such histories are not only multiple use in scope but are also management tools that provide basic understanding for land use decisions. Additionally, this history represents an ongoing effort to provide the public reader with a work that is not only interesting but is also well researched. In this way, another sector is satisfied. These histories are used by schools, libraries, universities, and of course the general public. Again, multiple use is served. Finally, as the Valley of Opportunity was being prepared, it happened that the City of Grand Junction's Centennial would occur in 1982. Coincidentally, the Glenwood Springs Resource Management Plan will be published in November 1982. Since this history serves several purposes, it is appropriate that it also is the Bureau's contribution to Grand Junction's Centennial celebration.

Roanoke, Virginia, 1882-1912 Rand Dotson, 2008. Tells the story of a city that for a brief period was widely hailed as a regional model for industrialization as well as the ultimate success symbol for the rehabilitation of the former Confederacy. In a region where modernization seemed to move at a glacial pace, those looking for signs of what they were triumphantly calling the New South pointed to Roanoke. No southern city grew faster than Roanoke did during the 1880s. A hardscrabble Appalachian tobacco depot, originally known by the uninspiring name of Big Lick, it became a veritable boomtown by the end of the decade as a steady stream of investment and skilled manpower flowed in from north of the Mason Dixon line. The first scholarly treatment of Roanoke's early history, the book explains how native businessmen convinced a northern investment company to make their small town a major railroad hub. It then describes how that venture initially paid off as the influx of thousands of people from the North and the surrounding Virginia countryside helped make Roanoke presumptuously christened the Magic City by New South proponents the state's third largest city by the turn of the century Rand Dotson recounts what life was like for Roanoke's wealthy elites working poor and African American inhabitants He also explores the social conflicts that ultimately erupted as a result of well intended reforms initiated by city leaders Dotson illustrates how residents mediated the catastrophic Depression of 1893 and that year's infamous Roanoke Riot which exposed the facade masking the city's racial tensions inadequate physical infrastructure and provincial mentality of the local populace Dotson then details the subsequent attempts of business boosters and progressive reformers to attract the additional investments needed to put their city back on track Ultimately Dotson explains Roanoke's early struggles stemmed from its business leaders unwavering belief that economic development would serve as the panacea for all of the town's problems residents of Boulder Colorado suddenly began to see mountain lions in their yards it became clear that the cats had repopulated the land after decades of persecution Here in a riveting environmental fable that recalls Peter Benchley s thriller Jaws journalist David Baron traces the history of the mountain lion and chronicles Boulder s effort to coexist with its new neighbors A parable for our times The Beast in the Garden is a scientific detective story and a real life drama a tragic tale of the struggle between two highly evolved predators man and beast
