male homosociality in the arts of the long nineteenth century by combining art history with the insights of gender and queer history From this interdisciplinary perspective the contributing authors present case studies of men s relationships in a variety of contexts which range from the Hungarian Reform Age to the Belgian fin de siècle As a whole the book offers a historicizing survey of the male bonds that underpinned nineteenth century art and a thought provoking reflection on its theoretical and methodological implications Art Now Gallery Guide ,2004-11 Bad Blood Clayton Schuster,2019-05-28 Why is there so much bad blood involved in the stories of artists and their artworks Immerse yourself in 18 infamous artistic rivalries dramatized with gripping moments of narrative to understand how the rivalries that art fans love to gossip about serve a larger purpose in the way cultures approach the idea of art and the artist Why did Michelangelo loathe Raphael for decades after the latter had died How did Pablo Picasso and Henri Matisse balance their perpetual competition with a lifelong friendship What transgression pitted the notorious titans of the London graffiti scene Banksy and King Robbo in a rivalry that ended with a tragic and unforeseeable death An investigative journey transforms some of the big names of the art world into real people often grumpy ornery antagonistic and flawed and better reveals how all of us respond to art

Gustave Courbet Georges Riat, 2023-12-28 Ornans Courbet's birthplace is near the beautiful valley of the Doubs River and it was here as a boy and later as a man that he absorbed the love of landscape He was by nature a revolutionary a man born to oppose existing order and to assert his independence he had that quality of bluster and brutality which makes the revolutionary count in art as well as in politics In both directions his spirit of revolt manifested itself He went to Paris to study art yet he did not attach himself to the studio of any of the prominent masters Already in his country home he had had a little instruction in painting and preferred to study the masterpieces of the Louvre At first his pictures were not sufficiently distinctive to arouse any opposition and were admitted to the Salon Then followed the Funeral at Ornans which the critics violently assailed A masquerade funeral six metres long in which there is more to laugh at than to weep over Indeed the real offence of Courbet's pictures was that they represented live flesh and blood They depicted men and women as they really are and realistically doing the business in which they are engaged His figures were not men and women deprived of personality and idealised into a type posed in positions that will decorate the canvas He advocated painting things as they are and proclaimed that la vrit vraie must be the aim of the artist So at the Universal Exposition of 1855 he withdrew his pictures from the exhibition grounds and set them in a wooden booth just outside the entrance Over the booth he posted a sign with large lettering It read simply Courbet Realist Like every revolutionary he was an extremist He ignored the fact that to every artist the truth of nature appears under a different guise according to his way of seeing and experiencing Instead he adhered to the notion that art is only a copying of nature and not a matter also of selection and arrangement In his contempt for prettiness Courbet often chose subjects which may fairly be called ugly But that he also had a sense of beauty may be seen in his landscapes That sense mingled with his capacity for deep emotion appears in his marines these last being his most impressive work Moreover in all his works whether attractive or not to the observer he proved himself a powerful painter painting in a broad free manner with a fine feeling for colour and with a firmness of pigment that made all his representations very real and stirring
