Rewriting Early Chinese Texts Edward L. Shaughnessy,2006-06-01 Rewriting Early Chinese Texts examines the problems of reconstituting and editing ancient manuscripts that will revise indeed rewrite Chinese history It is now generally recognized that the extensive archaeological discoveries made in China over the last three decades necessitate such a rewriting and will keep an army of scholars busy for years to come However this is by no means the first time China s historical record has needed rewriting In this book author Edward L Shaughnessy explores the issues involved in editing manuscripts rewriting them both today and in the past The book begins with a discussion of the difficulties encountered by modern archaeologists and paleographers working with manuscripts discovered in ancient tombs The challenges are considerable these texts are usually written in archaic script on bamboo strips and are typically fragmentary and in disarray It is not surprising that their new editions often meet with criticism from other scholars Shaughnessy then moves back in time to consider efforts to reconstitute similar bamboo strip manuscripts found in the late third century in a tomb in Jixian Henan He shows that editors at the time encountered many of the same difficulties faced by modern archaeologists and paleographers and that the first editions produced by a court appointed team of editors quickly prompted criticism from other scholars of the time Shaughnessy concludes with a detailed study of the editing of one of these texts the Bamboo Annals Zhushu jinian arguably the most important manuscript ever discovered in China Showing how at least two different competing editions of this text were produced by different editors and how the differences between them led later scholars to regard the original edition the only one still extant as a forgery Shaughnessy argues for this text's place in the rewriting of early Chinese history

To Live as Long as Heaven and Earth Robert Ford Campany, 2002-04-08 This book marks a new milestone in the study of Chinese religious history Only a scholar as intelligent and dedicated as Campany would dare tackle and so eloquently translate one of the most important and difficult works of early Chinese religious history Paul Katz author of Images of the Immortal The Cult of Lu Dongbin at the Palace of Eternal Joy This is a pathbreaking work of lasting significance to the field of Chinese religious history The scholarship is solid and current drawing upon the best research from America Europe China and Japan The translation is accurate clear and elegant based upon an innovative analysis of surviving sources Terry Kleeman author of Great Perfection Religion and Ethnicity in a Chinese Millennial Kingdom A competent translation of Ge Hong's hagiographies with close attention paid to sources and editions would already have constituted a major contribution to the field of Taoist studies But Campany provides as well a survey of religious practices in Ge Hong's writings and a reading of the hagiographies which enables us to see the social practices that lie behind them Together these two works in one constitute the best available portrait of religion and society in early fourth century China John Lagerwey author of Taoist Ritual in Chinese Society and History Campany's annotated translation of Ge Hong's 283-343 classic the first in English admirably captures the book's rich evocation of the religious culture of Southern China in the fourth century Ge Hong here offers a series of case studies of what he regarded as the historical and exemplary evidence for the existence of immortals This translation of Traditions of Divine Transcendents conveys a lively and multifaceted vision of the Taoist conception of physical immortality The book's emphasis on practices related to the cult of the immortals and the hope for transcendence squarely places its subject in the religious life of traditional Chinese society Franciscus Verellen co editor of The Taoist Canon A Historical Guide
