Too Much Magic James Howard Kunstler,2012-06-19 The author of The Long Emergency explains why technology can't solve all our problems and how excessive optimism can endanger our future The Long Emergency quickly became a grassroots hit offering a shocking vision of our post oil future and capturing the attention of environmentalists and business leaders alike As discussion about our dependence on fossil fuels and our dysfunctional financial and government institutions continues the author returns with Too Much Magic evaluating what has changed and what has not and what direction we need to take in this post financial crisis world Too much magic is what James Howard Kunstler sees in the bright utopian visions of the future dreamed up by optimistic souls who believe technology will solve all our problems Their visions remind him of the flying cars and robot maids that were the dominant images of the future in the 1950s Kunstler's image of the future is much more sober With vision clarity of thought and a pragmatic worldview Kunstler argues that the time for magical thinking and hoping for miracles is over and the time to begin preparing for the long emergency has begun A sharp critic of energy sucking big box landscapes Winnipeg Free Press

Geography Of Nowhere James Howard

Kunstler,1994-07-26 Argues that much of what surrounds Americans is depressing ugly and unhealthy and traces America's evolution from a land of village commons to a man made landscape that ignores nature and human needs Home from Nowhere James Howard Kunstler,1998-03-26 In his landmark book The Geography of Nowhere James Howard Kunstler visited the tragic sprawl of cartoon architecture junked cities and ravaged countryside America had become and declared that the deteriorating environment was not merely a symptom of a troubled culture but one of the primary causes of our discontent In Home from Nowhere Kunstler not only shows that the original American Dream the desire for peaceful pleasant places in which to work and live still has a strong hold on our imaginations but also offers innovative eminently practical ways to make that dream a reality Citing examples from around the country he calls for the restoration of traditional architecture the introduction of enduring design principles in urban planning and the development of public spaces that acknowledge our need to interact comfortably with one another The New York Times Index, 1986 Buried Bloodline Vera Volpe,2022-12-31 Solstice lives in a future loured over by vampire like beings called the Varkin These beings ruthlessly demand respect but give none They feed on and kill people without discrimination and even control how the human world is run Everyone wants an end to this viciousness but that seems impossible considering who they are up against A previous unknown source begins to turn things around though Solstice and her friends are unwittingly a part of it They meet mysterious people that unveil an agenda to change Varkin ways This agenda reveals buried secrets a past empire and an unknown bloodline With their help and help from unexpected allies some being mythical Solstice and her friends try to unravel the Varkin They hope that this quest is not unreachable They hope that only minor blood loss will occur The past however presents a vastly different story they are not prepared for Time, Astronomy, and Calendars in the Jewish Tradition Sacha Stern,Charles Burnett,2013-11-07 The study of time astronomy and calendars has been closely intertwined in the history of Western culture and more particularly Jewish tradition Jewish interest in astronomy was fostered by the Jewish calendar which was based on the courses of the sun and the moon whilst astronomy in turn led to a better understanding of how time should be reckoned Time Astronomy and Calendars in the Jewish Tradition edited by Sacha Stern and Charles Burnett presents a wide selection of original research in this multi disciplinary field ranging from Antiquity to the later Middle Ages Its variety of approaches and sub themes reflects the relevance of astronomy and calendars to many aspects of Jewish and more generally ancient and medieval culture and social history Contributors include Jonathan Ben Dov Reimund Leicht Marina Rustow Francois de Blois Raymond Mercier Philipp Nothaft Josefina Rodriguez Arribas Ilana Wartenberg Israel Sandman Justine Isserles Anne C Kineret Sittig Katharina Keim and Sacha Stern The Navigator Steve Merrick,2011-06-17 A superbly dark funny and entertaining romp through the universe with the last survivor of a viral epidemic as our guide and an unnamed virus as our narrator This story begins with the Munich Virus which wipes out every known population of humanity across the universe leaving Kego our schizophrenic nine year old navigator to fend for himself and return to Earth with the Frozen those who were lucky enough to be in stasis when the virus struck We follow Kego on his journey through the cosmos as he steers the Solstice back to Earth to re establish the human race Narrated by an unknown and un named virus of indefinite age wisdom and sarcasm who gives his somewhat unusual yet strangely enlightening views on Kego s and ultimately humanity s journey as obstacles are met faced and hurdled this is more than just a story It is a romp through the history of mankind as viewed by one who has not been subject to civilised influences and has gained his knowledge through The History itself and by another who was there as an outsider looking in Somehow this book manages to cover every subject from religion to politics using life death peace war love hate and humanity as its stepping stones without burying the story or bombarding the reader with endless details Instead Merrick has created a post apocalyptic science fiction tale set in a future that seems possible even today that will make you both laugh and cry feel compassion for each and every character at some point while hating them in the next and leaving you wanting more when you reach the end The review above is reproduced courtesy of Sams Reviews at goodreads
