Quinn,2021-08-10 How the American government has long used financial credit programs to create economic opportunities Federal housing finance policy and mortgage backed securities have gained widespread attention in recent years because of the 2008 financial crisis but issues of government credit have been part of American life since the nation s founding From the 1780s when a watershed national land credit policy was established to the postwar foundations of our current housing finance system American Bonds examines the evolution of securitization and federal credit programs Sarah Quinn shows that since the Westward expansion the U S government has used financial markets to manage America s complex social divides and politicians and officials across the political spectrum have turned to land sales home ownership and credit to provide economic opportunity without the appearance of market intervention or direct wealth redistribution Highly technical systems securitization and credit programs have been fundamental to how Americans determined what they could and should owe one another Over time government officials embraced credit as a political tool that allowed them to navigate an increasingly complex and fractured political system affirming the government s role as a consequential and creative market participant Neither intermittent nor marginal credit programs supported the growth of powerful industries from railroads and farms to housing and finance have

The Making of Global Capitalism Leo Panitch, Sam Gindin, 2013-10-08. The all-encompassing embrace of world capitalism at the beginning of the twenty-first century was generally attributed to the superiority of competitive markets. Globalization had appeared to be the natural outcome of this unstoppable process. But today, with global markets reeling and increasingly reliant on state intervention to stay afloat, it has become clear that markets and states are not straightforwardly opposing forces. In this groundbreaking work, Leo Panitch and Sam Gindin demonstrate the intimate relationship between modern capitalism and the American state. The Making of Global Capitalism identifies the centrality of the social conflicts that occur within states rather than between them. These emerging fault lines hold out the possibility of new political movements that might transcend global markets.

The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1897. Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature, 1901. Research Handbook on Global Capital Markets Law Iris H.-Y. Chiu, Iain G. MacNeil, 2023-06-01. This Research Handbook is a one-stop resource on global capital markets and the laws that regulate them. Featuring contributions from leading global experts, the Research Handbook delves into a range of issues including investment products such as equity finance, sustainable finance, fintech, impact investing, and private equity. It also provides analysis on institutional and procedural issues such as large and small companies, capital formation, the roles of institutional shareholders and information providers, and the practices and regulation of financial trading markets.

Survival of the Greenest Amir Lebdioui, 2024-05-31. The pathways to economic development are changing. Environmental sustainability is no longer a choice but a necessity to maintain a competitive edge in the global economy. Just like in nature, where survival hinges on adaptation, this Element shows how nations adjust to and take advantage of the new dynamics of structural transformation induced by climate change. First, by analysing the uneven industrial geography of decarbonisation, the inadequate state of climate financing, and the rise of green protectionism, it demonstrates that the low-carbon economy stands to increase economic disparities between nations unless action is taken. Then, by examining green industrial policies and their varied success, it explains how governments can still join the green industrialisation race. Finally, it examines how to adapt green industrial policy to different starting points, market sizes, productive structures, state-business relations, dynamics, institutional layouts, and ecological contexts.
