The object of the following treatise is to describe the nature of original Scientific Research, the chief personal conditions of success in its pursuit, the general methods by which discoveries are made in Physics and Chemistry, and the causes of failure, and thus to elucidate so far as possible the special mental conditions and processes by means of which the mind of man ascends from the known to the unknown in matters of science. Some of the conditions described are such as I have in my own experience found to be necessary, and some of the methods are those I have frequently employed in my own researches.
