Alaskan Wilderness Adventure Duane Arthur Ose, R. Sterling, 2013-07-06 I will always have a love for my birthplace the Minnesota River Valley but a new land of adventure was beckoning me I was not interested in renting or owning a small portion of property and that was all I could afford in Minnesota I saw the last frontier on Earth Alaska and knew I could make a new life there With having the freedom to breathe to make a new life free from restrictions of movement To feel like I was no longer tethered The year was 1984 I had to take the first steps in making my dreamland come true I had to find the piece of land I wanted to own and live on so that I could stake my claim One day a friend informed me that there were two federal land areas open for homesteading The very next day I found my way into the federal land office in Anchorage the Bureau of Land Management BLM I told the woman working at the reception desk that I was interested in learning more about claiming a federal homestead I picked up every folder brochure and form they had pertaining to filing for a homestead The next year after careful planning and preparation I set out with my son Dan to start the journey of securing my dreams of the future Alaska Wilderness Adventure documents the first step of my lifelong journey It is a true story of survivalism the trials and errors we faced in the extreme wilderness and our triumph over mastering our goals There were many laughs and many moments of uncertainty but in the end it was a successful piece of history

This act was closed on October 1986, never to reopen. Read to view parts of 1987's construction stage, struggles, hardships, accomplishments, bears and up close encounters with what I come to call the Hairy Ones. The Hairy Ones are peaceful beings and not the scary monsters that there made out to be. The Hairy Ones are bashful, elusive and friendly beings.
