humanism classical philology and natural philosophy Renaissance naturalists created a new science devoted to discovering and describing plants and animals Drawing on published natural histories manuscript correspondence garden plans travelogues watercolors and drawings The Science of Describing reconstructs the evolution of this discipline of description through four generations of naturalists In the late fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries naturalists focused on understanding ancient and medieval descriptions of the natural world but by the mid sixteenth century naturalists turned toward distinguishing and cataloguing new plant and animal species To do so they developed new techniques of observing and recording created botanical gardens and herbaria and exchanged correspondence and specimens within an international community By the early seventeenth century naturalists began the daunting task of sorting through the wealth of information they had accumulated putting a new emphasis on taxonomy and classification Illustrated with woodcuts engravings and photographs The Science of Describing is the first broad interpretation of Renaissance natural history in more than a generation and will appeal widely to an interdisciplinary audience Arboreal Symbolism in European Art, 1300-1800
