Voicing the Word Marina Spunta, 2004 Drawing on the recent renewal of interest in the debate on orality and literacy this book investigates the varying perceptions and representations of orality in contemporary Italian fiction providing a fresh perspective on this rich and fast developing debate and on the study of the Italian literary language The book brings together a number of complementary approaches to orality from the fields of linguistics literary and media studies and offers a detailed analysis of a broad variety of authors and texts that appeared over the last three decades ranging from internationally acclaimed writers such as Celati Duranti and Tabucchi through De Luca and Baricco to the latest generation of writers such as Campo Ballestra and Nove By exploring the complementary facets of Italian orality and its diachronical developments since the seventies this study questions the traditionally dichotomic approach to the study of orality and literacy and posits a more flexible cross modal approach that accounts for the increasing hybridisation of text forms and media and for the greater interaction between the spoken and the written as well as their representations
