Community Cohesion and Migration Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Communities and Local Government Committee, 2008 Around Auburn Stephanie E. Przybylek, 1998-09-10 As the companion volume to Around Auburn this pictorial history chronicles the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries in Auburn New York Local historian Stephanie E Przybylek has compiled another impressive collection of images in a joint effort with the Cayuga Museum to preserve the history of Auburn Around Auburn Volume II features images from the museum the Community Preservation Committee and private collections Included in this volume are views of Genesee Street in the bustling 1920s interior shots of the McIntosh Seymour factory and Lakeside Park and Enna Jettick Park amusement parks that served as summer playgrounds for generations of local residents on the shores of Owasco Lake The strong community bonds created by the hardship of the Great Depression and two world wars are documented as well as immigration in the early twentieth century which added rich ethnic and cultural contrasts to Auburn A Business Ecology Perspective on Community-Driven Open Source Markus Radits, 2018-11-26 This thesis approaches the phenomenon of open source software OSS from a managerial and organisational point of view In a slightly narrower sense this thesis studies commercialisation aspects around community driven open source The term community driven signifies open source projects that are managed steered and controlled by communities of volunteers as opposed to those that are managed steered and controlled by single corporate sponsors By adopting a business ecology perspective this thesis places emphasis on the larger context within which the commercialisation of OSS is embedded e g global and collaborative production regimes ideological foundations market characteristics and diffuse boundary conditions Because many business benefits arise as a consequence of the activities taking place in the communities and ecosystems around open source projects a business ecology perspective may be a useful analytical guide for understanding the opportunities challenges and risks that firms face in commercializing OSS There are two overarching themes guiding this thesis The first theme concerns the challenges that firms face in commercialising community driven open source There is a tendency in the literature on business ecosystems and open source to emphasise the benefits opportunities and positive aspects of behaviour at the expense of the challenges that firms face However business ecosystems are not only spaces of opportunity they may also pose a variety of challenges that firms need to overcome in order to be successful To help rectify this imbalance in the literature the first theme particularly focuses on the challenges that firms face in commercialising community driven open source The underlying ambition is to facilitate a more balanced and holistic understanding of the collaborative and competitive dynamics in ecosystems around open source projects The other theme concerns the complex intertwining of community engagement and profit oriented venturing As is acknowledged in the literature the subject of firm community interaction has become increasingly important because the survival success and sustainability of peer production communities has become of strategic relevance to many organisations However while many

strategic benefits may arise as a consequence of firm community interaction there is a lack of research studying how the value creating logics of firm community interaction are embedded within the bigger picture in which they occur Bearing this bigger picture in mind this thesis explores the intertwining of volunteer community engagement and profit oriented venturing by focusing on four aspects that are theorised in the literature reinforcement complementarity synergy and reciprocity This thesis is designed as a qualitative exploratory single case study The empirical case is Joomla a popular open source content management system In a nutshell the Joomla case in this thesis comprises the interactions in the Joomla community and the commercial activities around the Joomla platform e g web development consulting marketing customisation extensions In order to achieve greater analytical depth the business ecology perspective is complemented with ideas and propositions from other theoretical areas such as stakeholder theory community governance organizational identity motivation theory pricing and bundling The findings show that the common challenges in commercialising community driven open source revolve around nine distinct factors that roughly cluster into three domains the ecosystem the community and the firm In short the domain of the ecosystem comprises the global operating environment the pace of change and the cannibalisation of ideas The domain of the community comprises the platform policy platform image and the voluntary nature of the open source project And finally the domain of the firm comprises the blurring boundaries between private and professional lives the difficulty of estimating costs and firm dependencies Based on these insights a framework for analysing community based value creation in business ecosystems is proposed This framework integrates collective innovation community engagement and value capture into a unified model of value creation in contexts of firm community interaction Furthermore the findings reveal demonstrable effects of reinforcement complementarity synergy and reciprocity in the intertwining of volunteer community engagement and profit oriented venturing By showing that this intertwining can be strong in empirical cases where commercial activities are often implicitly assumed to be absent this thesis provides a more nuanced understanding of firm involvement in the realm of open source Based on the empirical and analytical insights a number of further theoretical implications are discussed such as the role of intersubjective trust in relation to the uncertainties that commercial actors face an alternative way of classifying community types the metaphor of superorganisms in the context of open source issues pertaining to the well being of community participants and issues in relation to the transitioning of open source developers from a community based to an entrepreneurial self identity when commercialising an open source solution Furthermore this thesis builds on six sub studies that make individual contributions of their own In a broad sense this thesis contributes to the literature streams on the commercialisation of OSS the business value and strategic aspects of open source the interrelationships between community forms of organising and entrepreneurial activities and the nascent research on ecology perspectives on peer production communities A variety of opportunities for future research are highlighted Denna avhandling undersöker fenomenet mellan open source och ett lednings och privatliv och arbetsliv svårigheten att uppskatta kostnader samt beroendeförhållanden mellan företag. Baserat på dessa insikter föreslås en modell för att analysera communitybaserad värdeskapande i affärsökologier. Modellen integrerar kollektiv innovation, community deltagande och value capture i en holistisk modell för communitybaserad värdeskapande i kontexten samverkan mellan företag och communities. Vidare beskrivs effekterna av sammanflätningen av frivilligt community deltagande och vinstdrivande verksamhet i termer av förstärkning, komplementaritet, synergi och målsidighet. Genom att visa att sammanflätningen av frivilligt community deltagande och vinstdrivande verksamhet kan vara stark i fall där det ofta antas implicit att kommersiella aktiviteter inte förekommer, ger denna avhandling en mer nyanserad förståelse av företags roll i kontexten open source. Baserat på empiriska och analytiska insikter diskuterar denna avhandling ett antal teoretiska konsekvenser såsom rollen som intersubjektiv tillit spelar i förhållande till den osäkerhet som kommersiella aktörer står inför ett alternativt sätt att klassificera community typer, metaforen superorganismer i kontexten open source community deltagares välbefinnande samt hur open source utvecklare hanterar vergensgenomgången från en communitybaserad självidentitet till en entreprenoriell självidentitet vid kommersialisering av OSS. Dessutom ger de sex delstudier som avhandlingen bygger på egna bidrag som presenteras i respektive delstudie i stora drag bidrar denna avhandling till litteraturen om kommersialisering av OSS, affärsmodeller och strategiska aspekter på open source samspelet mellan community driven entreprenörsverksamhet samt den framväxande forskning som använder ett affärsökologiperspektiv för att studera kollegial produktion baserad på allmän nytta. En mängd olika möjligheter för framtida forskning lyfts fram.

Community based crime control has become one of the principal policy responses to crime and disorder across western societies and is regarded now as one of the keys to successful crime prevention and reduction. The aim of this book is to bring together findings from case studies of community based crime control in England as a means of examining the prospects for this approach, its evolving relationship with criminal justice and social policies and to assess the lessons internationally that can be drawn from this in the theory, research methods, politics and practice of crime control. At the same time the book advances an important new conceptual framework for understanding community based crime control focusing on an understanding of the diversity of control and preventative strategies, the locally particular conditions in which they are conducted and the degree of choices open to local political actors involved in their conduct. Understanding diversity in this way is central to drawing lessons about the transferability of crime control theory and practice from one social context to another, avoiding the naïve emulation of practices in different contexts.

Since the advent of the internet, online communities have emerged as a way for users to share their common interests and connect with others with ease. As the possibilities of the online world grew and the COVID 19 pandemic raged across the world, many organizations recognized the utility in not only providing further services online but also in transitioning operations typically fulfilled in person to an online space. As society approaches a reality in which most community practices have moved to online spaces it is essential that community leaders remain knowledgeable on the best practices in cultivating engagement Community Engagement in the Online Space evaluates key issues and practices pertaining to community engagement in remote settings It analyzes various community engagement efforts within remote education online groups and remote work This book further reviews the best practices for community engagement and considerations for the optimization of these practices for effective virtual delivery to support emergency environmental challenges such as pandemic conditions Covering topics such as community belonging global health virtual practicum and social media engagement this premier reference source is an excellent resource for program directors faculty and administrators of both K 12 and higher education students of higher education business leaders and executives IT professionals online community moderators librarians researchers and academicians University Community

Engagement and Lifelong Learning Julia Preece, 2017-07-13 This book offers a conceptual re think of how university community engagement functions as a lifelong learning resource for communities While having a specific focus on the South African context it has important implications for other universities which are concerned with their communities and makes a compelling argument for the university as a public good in spite of current trends towards marketization and commodification of higher education The book draws on a theoretical framework of capabilities asset based community development and the adult learning concept of dialogue to propose a model whereby the boundary walls of the university become metaphorically porous so that community members feel free to interact with the university as equal members of society A historical outline of African universities is provided as well as an exploration of the evolution of terms for community engagement service learning and learning cities and an examination of the policy and practice implications for the ideological model of a porous university Culturally Engaging Service-Learning With Diverse Communities

Delano-Oriaran, Omobolade O., Penick-Parks, Marguerite W., Fondrie, Suzanne, 2017-09-13 Evaluating the experiences of racially marginalized and underrepresented groups is vital to creating equality in society Such actions have the potential to provoke an interest in universities to adopt high impact pedagogical practices that attempt to eliminate institutional injustices Culturally Engaging Service Learning With Diverse Communities is a pivotal reference source for the latest scholarly research on service learning models that recognize how systemic social injustices continue to pervade society Featuring extensive coverage on a broad range of topics and perspectives such as cultural humility oral histories and social ecology this book is ideally designed for scholars practitioners and students interested in engaging in thoughtful and authentic partnerships with diverse groups Beyond the Kale Kristin Reynolds, Nevin Cohen, 2016 Urban agriculture is increasingly considered an important part of creating just and sustainable cities Yet the benefits that many people attribute to urban agriculture fresh food green space educational opportunities can mask structural inequities thereby making political transformation harder to achieve Beyond the Kale argues that urban agricultural projects focused explicitly on dismantling oppressive systems have the greatest potential to achieve substantive social change Through in depth interviews and public forums with prominent urban agriculture activists and supporters primarily people of color and women whose strategies have often been underrepresented in the literature Kristin Reynolds and Nevin Cohen illustrate how urban farmers and gardeners not only grow food for their communities but also use their activities and spaces to disrupt the dynamics of power and privilege that perpetuate inequity Beyond the Kale provides recommendations for these in philanthropy government nonprofit organizations and academia to support such initiatives Book jacket

Middle-class School Choice in Urban Spaces Emma Rowe, 2016-12-01 Middle class School Choice in Urban Spaces examines government funded public schools from a range of perspectives and scholarship in order to examine the historical political and economic conditions of public schooling within a globalized post welfare context In this book Rowe argues that post welfare policy conditions are detrimental to government funded public schools as they engender consistent pressure in rearticulating the public school in alignment with the market produce tensions in serving the more historical conceptualizations of public schooling and are preoccupied by contemporary profit driven concerns Chapters focus on public schooling from different global perspectives with examples from Chile and the US to examine how various social movements encapsulate ideologies around public schooling Rowe also draws upon a rich five year ethnographic study of campaigns lobbying the Victorian State Government in Australia for a brand new local specific public school Critical attention is paid to the public school as a means to achieve empowerment and overcome discrimination and both a local and global lens are used to identify how parents choose the public school the values they attach to it and the strategies they use to obtain it Also considered however are how quality gaps distances and differences between public schools threaten to undermine the democracy of education as a means for individuals to be socially mobile and escape poverty This book makes an important contribution to our understanding of global social movements and activism around public education As such it will be of key interest to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the field of education specifically those working on school choice class and identity as well as educational geography

Hindu Nationalism in South India Nissim Mannathukkaren, 2024-07-31 Hindu Nationalism in South India engages with a range of factors that shapes the trajectory of Hindu nationalism in Kerala the southern state of India Until recently Kerala was considered a socio political exception which had no room for Hindu nationalism This book questions such Panglossian prognosis and shows the need to map the ideological and political growth of Hindu nationalism which has been downplayed in the academic discourse as temporary aberrations The introduction to the book places Kerala in the context of South India Arguing that Hindutva is a real force which needs to be contended within theoretical and empirical terms the chapters in this book examine Hindu nationalism in Kerala in relation to themes such as history caste culture post truth ideology gender politics and the Indian national space Considering the rise of Hindu nationalism in the recent years this pioneering book will be of interest to a students and academics studying Politics in particular Nationalism Asian Politics and Religion and Politics and South Asian Studies

Community Action and Climate Change Jennifer Kent, 2015-11-19 The failure of recent international negotiations to progress global action on climate change has shifted attention to the emergence of grassroots sustainability initiatives These civil society networks display the potential to implement social innovation and change processes from the bottom up Recent scholarship has sought to theorise grassroots community based low carbon practices in terms of their sustainability transition potential However there are few empirical examples that demonstrate the factors for success of community based social innovations in achieving more widespread adoption outside of their local sustainability niche The book seeks to address two significant gaps related to grassroots climate action firstly the continuing dominance of the individualisation of responsibility for climate change action which presupposes that individuals hold both the ability and desire to shift their behaviours and lifestyle choices to align with a low carbon future Secondly the potential for community based collectives to influence mainstream climate change governance an area significantly under researched Drawing on empirical research into Australian Climate Action Groups CAGs and related international research the book argues that grassroots community based collective action on climate change holds the key to broader social change This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of climate change citizen participation environmental sociology and sustainable development
