Dru,2022-08-26 Everyone understands that the primary purpose of a gift is to bring joy to the recipient A gift that has been wrapped expresses a unique personality A wrapped gift will elicit a wave of emotions even before it is unwrapped surprise happiness laughter and tears The anticipation of a wonder is expressed in gift wrapping The gift should be packaged not just attractively and creatively but also as an encrypted message like a book cover Both the recipient and the giver benefit from receiving a gift The author of this book believes that the gift is not the item itself but the person who gives it and that the gift carries a bit of the giver's spirit Bringing a gift is a way of transferring part of your I through communication All of this can be encoded precisely in the package Of course knowing the person who will receive the present as well as the recipient's psychological profile personality temperament and hobbies is essential The author considers the type of response she likes to receive Everything is important what colors materials and accessories are used lighting and furnishings at the time the gift will be given and how it will be opened Sometimes not only external impressions are considered but also the aroma inside the gift The author receives great pleasure to work with new materials to study various techniques and she likes personal touches for each design This book was written as an inspiration and to bring out pleasant emotions and delight rather than as a gift wrapping guide
