related to art cannot be reduced to primitivism alone and also encompasses a search in one's own unconsciousness among other things. The yearning for authenticity through exoticism is explored in a cultural anthropological perspective in the realms of Western philosophy, capita selecta and colonial literature, currents of art and in the appreciation of Western art conceptions in non-Western societies. An array of firsthand ethnographic illustrations of art production in Asian and Pacific societies demonstrates complementary processes in the non-Western world. A major hypothesis is that exoticism is closely related to and often motivated by eroticism, a reason why exoticism should be considered as gendered. Case studies of the falsification of authentic art, the de-sacralization of sacred objects and of the use of natural materials deriving from endangered species complete the analysis.

Art and Asia Pacific, 2008 Comparative Executive Clemency Andrew

Novak, 2015-08-20

Virtually every constitutional order in the common law world contains a provision for executive clemency or pardon in criminal cases. This facility for legal mercy is not limited to a single place in modern legal systems but is instead realized through various practices, such as a law enforcement officer's decision to arrest, a prosecutor's decision to prosecute, and a judge's decision to convict and sentence. Doubts about legal mercy in any form as unfair, unguided, or arbitrary are as ubiquitous as the exercise of mercy itself. This book presents a comparative analysis of the clemency and pardon power in the common law world. Andrew Novak compares the modern development, organization, and practice of constitutional and statutory schemes of clemency and pardon in the United Kingdom United States and Commonwealth jurisdictions He asks whether the bureaucratization of the clemency power is in line with global trends and explores how innovations in legislative involvement judicial review and executive consultation have made the mercy and pardon procedure more transparent The book concludes with a discussion on the future of the clemency and pardon power given the decline of the death penalty in the Commonwealth and the rise of the modern institution of parole As a work concerned with the practice of mercy in the common law world this book will be of great interest to researchers and students of international and comparative criminal justice and international human rights law The Regional Travel Guide for Tongatapu (Tonga) , Samoan Art and

Fijian R. M. W. Dixon,1988 The people who live in the Boumaa region of the Fijian island of Taveuni speak a dialect of Fijian that is mutually intelligible with Standard Fijian the two differing as much perhaps as do the American and British varieties of English During 1985 R M W Dixon one of the most insightful of linguists engaged in descriptive studies today lived in the village of Waitabu and studied the language spoken there He found in Boumaa Fijian a wealth of striking features unknown in commonly studied languages and on the basis of his fieldwork prepared this grammar Fijian is an agglutinating language one in which words are formed by the profligate combining of morphemes There are no case inflections and tense and aspect as shown by independent clitics or words within a predicate complex Most verbs come in both transitive and intransitive forms and nouns can be build up regularly from verbal parts and verbs from nouns The language is also marked by a highly developed pronoun system and by a vocabulary rich in areas of social significance In the opening chapters Dixon describes the Islands political social and linguistic organization outlines the main points of Fijian phonology and presents an overview of the grammar In succeeding chapters he examines a number of grammatical topics in greater detail including clause and phrase structure verbal syntax deictics and anaphora The volume also includes a full vocabulary of all forms treated in discussion and three of the fifteen texts recorded from monolingual village elders on which the grammar is based

Islanderers of the South Paul van der Grijp, 2021-08-16 Islanders of the South is an ethnography of the kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific This is the first book to examine the interplay of Polynesian and Western ideas within contemporary social and economic practices not from the point of view of Tongan aristocracy but from that of the common people The first describes contemporary Tongan society and the main means of subsistence agriculture fishing and manufacturing An analysis of the kinship system with its economic political and ideological dimensions is intertwined with a discussion of Tongan attitudes on life and death marriage and divorce social rights and obligations migration and remittances Later chapters deal with the crucial questions of land ownership and the circulation of gifts A large number of genealogies biographies and case studies help convey how Tongans live together and how they experience their relationship to nature Effects on Tonga of global developments predominantly capitalist in nature are expressed in the commercialization of the means of subsistence bringing about changes often regarded as progress The author raises doubts about this ideology of progress by referring to aspects of nature and culture in Tonga which are disappearing Up to now Tongans have largely been able to preserve the circulation of gifts and economic self sufficiency
