Pyne, 2019-04-02 America is not simply a federation of states but a confederation of regions Some have always held national attention some just for a time Slopovers examines three regions that once dominated the national narrative and may now be returning to prominence The Mid American oak woodlands were the scene of vigorous settlement in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries and thus the scene of changing fire practices The debate over the origin of the prairies by climate or fire foreshadowed the more recent debate about fire in oak and hickory hardwoods In both cases today's thinking points to the critical role of fire The Pacific Northwest was the great pivot between laissez faire logging and state sponsored conservation and the fires that would accompany each Then fire faded as an environmental issue But it has returned over the past decade like an avenging angel forcing the region to again consider the defining dialectic between axe and flame And Alaska Alaska is different as everyone says It came late to wildland fire protection then managed an extraordinary transfiguration into the most successful American region to restore something like the historic fire regime But Alaska is also a petrostate and climate change may be making it the vanguard of what the Anthropocene will mean for American fire overall Slopovers collates surveys of these three regions into the national narrative With a unique mixture of journalism history and literary imagination renowned fire expert Stephen J Pyne shows how culture and nature fire from nature and fire from people interact to shape our world with three case studies in public policy and the challenging questions they pose about the future we will share with fire American Woodworker, 1989-05 American Woodworker magazine A New Track Media publication has been the premier publication for woodworkers all across America for 25 years We are committed to providing woodworkers like you with the most accurate and up to date plans and information including new ideas product and tool reviews workshop tips and much much more Forest and Stream, 1888 You Can Help Your Country: English children's work during the Second World War Berry Mayall, Virginia Morrow, 2020-11-23 First published in 2011 You Can Help Your Country English children's work during the Second World War reveals the remarkable hidden history of children as social agents who actively participated in a national effort during a period of crisis In praise of the book Hugh Cunningham celebrated author of The Invention of Childhood wrote Think of children and the Second World War and evacuation comes immediately to mind Berry Mayall and Virginia Morrow have a different story to tell one in which all the children of the nation were encouraged to contribute to the war effort Many responded enthusiastically Evidence from school magazines and oral testimony shows children digging for victory working on farms knitting comforts for the troops collecting waste for recycling running households What lessons the authors ask does this wartime participation by children have for our own time The answers are challenging Trail Louis
