Screening Foreign Direct Investment in the EU Jens Velten,2022-07-19 Foreign Direct Investment FDI from third countries a desirable form of investment to boost the EU s economy or a threat to important EU and Member State interests that must be mitigated via FDI screening mechanisms FDI screening is a complex controversial and highly topical subject at the intersection of law politics and economics This book analyzes the political rationale behind FDI screening in the EU reveals the legal limitations of current FDI screening mechanisms based on security and public order and identifies legislative options for broader screening mechanisms in accordance with EU and international economic law In particular the book identifies the four main concerns in the EU regarding FDI from third countries distortive competition effects the lack of reciprocity on FDI treatment between the EU and the investor's home country objectives of the investor or their home country that may be detrimental to EU interests and safety of private information On this basis the book analyzes the Screening Regulation Regulation EU 2019/452 and its newly introduced screening ground security or public order and asks whether this and other similar screening grounds based on the notions of security public order and public policy can address these concerns with regard to foreign investors Based on an analysis of WTO law and EU primary law it argues that they cannot Thus the question arises Do the EU and Member States have the flexibility to adopt broader FDI screening mechanisms To answer this question the book examines the freedoms of capital movement and establishment in EU primary law as well as various sources of international economic law such as first and foremost the WTO's General Agreement on Trade in Services but also other bi and plurilateral trade and investment treaties including the EU China Comprehensive Agreement on Investment In closing the book identifies various legislative options for broader FDI screening mechanisms and their shortcomings

Control of Cardiovascular Diseases in Developing Countries Committee on Research, Development, and Institutional Strengthening for Control of Cardiovascular Diseases in Developing Countries, Institute of Medicine, 1998-10-13 Cardiovascular diseases (CVD) are increasing in epidemic proportions in developing countries. CVD already accounts for almost 10 percent of the developing world's burden of disease and is likely to become the developing world's leading cause of death. There is reason for hope, however, given that huge potential exists for applying R D to control this emerging epidemic, both in creating powerful new interventions such as vaccines and dietary supplements and in guiding behavior. In addition, a considerable body of evidence suggests that current risk factor prevention programs and low cost case management of CVD offer feasible, cost effective ways to reduce CVD mortality and disability in developing country populations. Large scale CVD control efforts are lacking, however, and thus governments and individuals are left to make choices about health and health care services without the benefit of appropriate knowledge. This report was designed to promote a policy dialogue on CVD based on informed knowledge of R D opportunities that offer effective, affordable, and widely applicable responses in developing countries. The report examines: a) the emerging burden of CVD in developing countries; b) the future worldwide burden of CVD; c) current prevention and treatment of CVD in developing countries; d) R D to support CVD control; e) opportunities and priorities for R D and the need for institutional arrangements for collaboration in facing the epidemic.
