American Southwest And Mesoamerica Systems Of Prehistoric Exchange:

The American Southwest and Mesoamerica Jonathon E. Ericson, Timothy G. Baugh, 1993-01-31 This is the only available volume to summarize current knowledge of prehistoric regional exchange in the American Southwest and Mesoamerica As such anthropologists and archaeologists will find it a valuable source of important data for comparative analysis of regional systems relative to sociopolitical organization

The Mesoamerican World System, 200-1200 CE Peter Jiménez, 2020-08-27 This is the first application of the comparative approach of world systems analysis in Mesoamerican archaeology

The Protohistoric Pueblo World, A.D. 1275-1600 E. Charles Adams, Andrew I. Duff, 2016-04 In the centuries before the arrival of Europeans the Pueblo world underwent nearly continuous reorganization Populations moved from Chaco Canyon and the great centers of the Mesa Verde region to areas along the Rio Grande the Little Colorado River and the Mogollon Rim where they began constructing larger and differently organized villages many with more than 500 rooms Villages also tended to occur in clusters that have been interpreted in a number of different ways This book describes and interprets this period of southwestern history immediately before and after initial European contact A D 1275 1600 a span of time during which Pueblo peoples and culture were dramatically transformed It summarizes one hundred years of research and archaeological data for the Pueblo IV period as it explores the nature of the organization of village clusters and what they meant in behavioral and political terms Twelve of the chapters individually examine the northern and eastern portions of the Southwest and the groups who settled there during the protohistoric period The authors develop histories for settlement clusters that offer insights into their unique development and the variety of ways that villages formed these clusters These analyses show the extent to which spatial clusters of large settlements may have formed regionally organized alliances and in some cases they reveal a connection between protohistoric villages and indigenous or migratory groups from the preceding period This volume is distinct from other recent syntheses of Pueblo IV research in that it treats the settlement cluster as the analytic unit By analyzing how members of clusters of villages interacted with one another it offers a clearer understanding of the value of this level of analysis and suggests possibilities for future research In addition to offering new insights on the Pueblo IV world the volume serves as a compendium of information on more than 400 known villages larger than 50 rooms It will be of lasting interest not only to archaeologists but also to geographers land managers and general readers interested in Pueblo culture

Companion Encyclopedia of Archaeology Graeme Barker, 1999 The 26 articles in this new Companion Encyclopedia provide an invaluable compendium of the themes issues and background of this popular but complex field This two volume set offers definitive coverage of the field as a whole and is divided into three thematic sections Part I Origins Aims and Methods features articles on the history and theory of the discipline and the techniques used in the study of archaeological evidence Part II Problems and Approaches examines how archaeologists approach such themes as culture identity society territory population and beliefs across the traditional boundaries of period and place Part III The Development of Human Society integrates the concerns which are addressed in the previous two sections and draws together the methods and approaches in studying hunter gatherer societies developing models for state formation examining medieval demographic trends and understanding early modern and industrial societies

Prehistory and Early History of the Malpai Borderlands Paul R. Fish, 2006 Prehispanic and early historic archaeological information for the Malpai Borderlands of southwest New Mexico and southeast Arizona is reviewed using data derived from field reconnaissance discussion with relevant scholars archival resources from varied agencies and institutions and published literature Previous regional research has focused on late prehistory A D 1200 to 1450 shaping the scope of cultural historical overview and providing an opportunity to examine relationships with Casas Grandes Paquime to the south A second important objective of current study is the exploration of prehispanic and early historic human impacts to Borderlands ecosystems particularly in relation fire ecology A recommended sequence of future research is intended to address significant questions surrounding both culture history and anthropogenic environments in the Malpai Borderlands

The Archaeology and History of Pueblo San Marcos Ann F. Ramenofsky, Kari L. Schleher, 2017-11-15 This volume provides the definitive record of a decade of archaeological investigations at San Marcos ancestral home to Kewa formerly Santo Domingo and Cochiti descendants Re/presenting Class J. K. Gibson-Graham, Stephen Resnick, Richard Wolff, Julie Graham, Katherine Gibson, 2001-06-15 Twelve theoretical and historical essays emanate from a novel shared poststructuralist conception of political economy General Technical Report RMRS, 1998 Earliest Italy Margherita Mussi, 2001-10-31 This book aims to synthesize more than 600 000 years of Italian prehistory beginning with the Lower Paleolithic and ending with the last hunter gatherers of the early Holocene The author treats such issues as the development of social structure the rise and fall of specific cultural traditions climatic change modifications of the landscape fauna and flora and environmental adaptation and exploitation and includes detailed descriptions of the most important sites Aurignacian Lithic Economy Brooke S. Blades, 2005-12-08 Drawing data from a classic region for Paleolithic research in Europe this book explores how early modern humans obtained lithic raw materials and analyzes the different utilization patterns for locally available materials compared with those from a greater distance The author locates these patterns within an ecological context and argues that early modern humans selected specific mobility strategies to accommodate changes in subsistence environments

Faunal Extinction in an Island Society Alan H. Simmons, 2006-01-22 The multidisciplinary research program at Akrotiri Aetokremnos is important in my opinion for three reasons two empirical and one conceptual Quite apart from the archaeology work at the site is a major contribution to island biogeography in that the Phanourios sample certainly the best from Cyprus and probably the best anywhere in the world has already provided and will continue to provide important ecological and behavioral data on these intriguing creatures Dwarfed island faunas are important to our understanding of the complex factors that shape natural selection in ecologically closed environments over the evolutionary long term At Aetokremnos we seem to have the end of a long sequence of hippo evolution on the island With comparative studies of other Cypriot hippo faunas we should be able to pin down the interval of initial colonization by what were presumably normal sized hippos and if the other sites can be dated document the dwarfing process in considerable detail Aetokremnos would still be a significant paleontological cality even in the absence of evidence of a human presence there While reading the text of the monograph a number of questions strictly related to the paleontology occurred to me One was how to model the colonization process There seems to be little question that the large mammals colonized the island by swimming to it because I gather Cyprus has not been connected to the mainland for roughly 5.6 million years

Golden Kingdoms Joanne Pillsbury, Timothy Potts, Kim N. Richter, 2017-09-26 This volume accompanies a major international loan exhibition featuring more than three hundred works of art many rarely or never before seen in the United States It traces the development of gold working and other luxury arts in the Americas from antiquity until the arrival of Europeans in the early sixteenth century Presenting spectacular works from recent excavations in Peru Colombia Panama Costa Rica Guatemala and Mexico this exhibition focuses on specific places and times crucibles of innovation where artistic exchange rivalry and creativity led to the production of some of the greatest works of art known from the ancient Americas The book and exhibition explore not only artistic practices but also the historical cultural social and political conditions in which luxury arts were produced and circulated alongside their religious meanings and ritual functions Golden Kingdoms creates new understandings of ancient American art through a thematic exploration of indigenous ideas of value and luxury Central to the book is the idea of the exchange of materials and ideas across regions and across time works of great value would often be transported over long distances or passed down over generations in both cases attracting new audiences and inspiring new artists The idea of exchange is at the intellectual heart of this volume researched and written by twenty scholars based in the United States and Latin America

Archaeology Barry W. Cunliffe, Wendy Davies, Colin Renfrew, 2002 Twenty six leading scholars from around the world have come together to celebrate the strengths the energies and the sheer intellectual excitement of their discipline They unashamedly proclaim that over the last hundred years archaeology has transformed itself from a genteel antiquarian pursuit deeply rooted in the classical tradition to a rigorous and demanding discipline spanning the humanities and the sciences yet at the same time one widely accessible to the public at large The contributors show how our understanding of the past has changed reveal the exciting ideas under current debate and offer their visions of the future The result is a remarkable overview of world archaeology focusing on new and unexpected themes at the cutting edge of the discipline

in light of the recent resurgence of interest in this topic within archaeology The author develops a reliable approach for detecting and assessing the impact of migration based on conceptions of style in anthropology From numerous ethnoarchaeological and ethnohistoric case studies material culture attributes are isolated that tend to be associated only with the groups that produce them Clark uses this approach to evaluate Puebloan migration into the Tonto Basin of east central Arizona during the early Classic period A D 1200 1325 focusing on a community that had been developing with substantial Hohokam influence prior to this interval He identifies Puebloan enclaves in the indigenous settlements based on culturally specific differences in the organization of domestic space and in technological styles reflected in wall construction and utilitarian ceramic manufacture Puebloan migration was initially limited in scale resulting in the co residence of migrants and local groups within a single community Once this co residence settlement pattern is reconstructed relations between the two groups are examined and the short term and long term impacts of migration are assessed The early Classic period is associated with the appearance of the Salado horizon in the Tonto Basin The results of this research suggest that migration and co residence was common throughout the basins and valleys in the region defined by the Salado horizon although each local sequence relates a unique story The methodological and theoretical implications of Clark s work extend well beyond the Salado and the Southwest and apply to any situation in which the scale and impact of prehistoric migration are contested

Villagers of the Maros John M. O'Shea, 2013-11-11 John M O Shea explores this question by employing modern archaeological theory and analysis as well as mortuary theory to build a model of an Early Bronze Age society in the eastern Carpathian Basin He focuses on the Maros communities and utilizes the densely encoded social information from their cemeteries to draw a picture of the Maros social systems
