American Technology:

The Rise and Fall of American Technology Lynn G. Gref, 2010 He contrasts the commonly held perception that the pace of technology is accelerating with the historical record He highlights the people and the organizations which are responsible for America's technological largesse The book follows the money to uncover the underlying trends The beginning of a decline in technology development is detected using indirect indicators for clues Impacts on the formation of companies employment and productivity provide sobering reasons to enlighten others and demand a change in course After considering the possibilities the book proposes several constructive actions which avoid the proverbial tendency to throw more money at the problem The goal of the book is to provoke discussion and promote action where appropriate Americans standard of living is at stake Tech savvy readers will want to understand this issue so as to influence others Long range thinkers will want to factor these considerations into their prognostications The titans of the technology based companies can develop new and improved strategies based on the findings of this book And our elected officials may want to act before a catastrophic disaster confronts the nation This book will strike a chord with everyone who is interested in America's future economic health Specific audience groups include scientists engineers entrepreneurs employees in technology based companies government and corporate policymakers deciding the future of research and development R D programs government workers involved in the execution of government R D programs and those thinking about a career in R D It is complementary to such works as Politics and Economics in America The Way We Came to Be by Richard E Carmichael Krieger Publishing Company 1998 which explores political and economic history in order to explain the emergence of the United States world economic dominance Carmichael's book makes recommendations on how government could assist America's businesses in maintaining our economic leadership but it does not address any aspects of technology development and associated issues Closing the Innovation Gap by Judy Estrin McGraw Hill 2009 provides business leaders with concepts for leading their organizations so as to close the innovation gap with competitors It focuses on the innovation environment within the organization whereas Dr Gref addresses the complete technology development cycle its financing America's rise to global dominance and the specter of a national decline

American Technology Policy J. D. Kenneth Boutin, 2012-12-31 Since the end of the Cold War U S policymakers have faced the challenge of addressing the technological requirements of both economic competitiveness and national security Promoting the technological objectives of competitiveness and security poses a daunting task as these objectives can differ significantly in terms of autonomy the private sector's role and the time frame involved The difficulties inherent in meeting these competing needs for technological investment and resources are exacerbated by growing technological globalization American Technology Policy analyzes the ongoing efforts of politicians legislators policymakers and industry leaders to balance their often conflicting technological requirements J D Kenneth Boutin examines recent trends and developments in American technology policy as it strives to support high technology firms without undermining national security He then considers issues of autonomy relations between the federal government and industry and the time frame involved in formulating and implementing policy initiatives all in the context of globalization Though satisfying the ambitious American technological agenda is difficult it is impossible for authorities to avoid making the effort given the high stakes involved Boutin s analysis is intended to inform those who are charged with prioritizing and balancing the technological needs of national defense and economic growth Although the post Cold War technology policy of the United States has been characterized by efforts to achieve a balance between these two competing priorities the dominant focus remains on national security Boutin explains the ways in which American authorities seek to limit the extent of compromise necessary by working with local and foreign actors and by encouraging structural changes in the environment for technological development application and diffusion

Early American Technology Judith A.
