Oriental tale when I describe the lavish luxury of that period the disputes for precedence the claims of rank the demands of every one Yes in all that there was something dreamlike and the actors in that fairy spectacle which is called the Empire that great show piece with its scenery now brilliant now terrible but ever changing must have been even more astonished than the spectators Aix la chapelle and the court of Charlemagne the castle of Fontainebleau and the Pope Notre Dame and the coronation the Champ de Mars and the distribution of eagles the Cathedral of Milan and the Iron Crown Genoa the superb and its naval festival Austerlitz and the three emperors what a setting What accessories What personages The peal of organs the intoning of priests the applause of the multitude and of the soldiers the groans of the dying the trumpet call the roll of the drum ball music military bands the cannons roar were the joyful and mournful harmonies heard while the play went on What we shall study amid this tumult and agitation is one woman We have already studied her as the Viscountess of Beauharnais as Citizeness Bonaparte and as the wife of the First Consul We shall now study her in her new part that of Empress About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
