Coup De Torchon Clean Slate:

Film Noir Jennifer Fay, Justus Nieland, 2009-12-04 The term film noir still conjures images of a uniquely American malaise hard boiled detectives fatal women and the shadowy hells of urban life But from its beginnings film noir has been an international phenomenon and its stylistic icons have migrated across the complex geo political terrain of world cinema This book traces film noir's emergent connection to European cinema its movement within a cosmopolitan culture of literary and cinematic translation and its postwar consolidation in the US Europe Asia the Middle East and Latin America The authors examine how film noir crosses national boundaries speaks to diverse international audiences and dramatizes local crimes and the crises of local spaces in the face of global phenomena like world wide depression war political occupation economic and cultural modernization decolonization and migration This fresh study of film noir and global culture also discusses film noir's heterogeneous style and revises important scholarly debates about this perpetually alluring genre

Landscapes of Loss

Naomi Greene, 1999-04-18 In this book Naomi Greene makes new sense of the rich variety of postwar French films by exploring the obsession with the national past that has characterized French cinema since the late 1960s Observing that the sense of grandeur and destiny that once shaped French identity has eroded under the weight of recent history Greene examines the ways in which French cinema has represented traumatic and defining moments of the nation's past the political battles of the 1930s the Vichy era decolonization the collapse of ideologies Drawing upon a broad spectrum of films and directors she shows how postwar films have reflected contemporary concerns even as they have created images and myths that have helped determine the contours of French memory This study of the intricate links between French history memory and cinema begins by examining the long shadow cast by the Vichy past and shifting political and historical perspectives toward the nation's more distant past which also emerged in these years Finally the mood of nostalgia and melancholy that appears to haunt contemporary France is analyzed in the context of films about the nation's imperial past as well as those that hark back to a golden age a remembered paradis perdu of French cinema itself
