Covenant For A New Creation Ethics Religion And Public Policy:

Covenant for a New Creation Carol S. Robb, Carl Casebolt, 1991 Whispering the Word Jacqueline E. Lapsley, 2005-11-03 Many Christian feminists wonder if they can simultaneously maintain their commitment to principles of gender equality and their faith in the Scriptures particularly the Old Testament Writing in response to feminist biblical scholars who approach the Old Testament with a hermeneutic of suspicion Jacqueline Lapsley offers Christian feminists strategies to hear the subtle ideas and voices of the less powerful within the Old Testament texts Reading and interpreting a number of Old Testament narratives in which women are prominent Lapsley considers how these stories may reflect God s word for us In doing so she demonstrates how the narrative often attempts to shape the moral response of the reader by revealing the intricacy and complexity of the moral world evoked In this gentle shaping of the reader's ethical sensibilities she argues is where God may be whispering a word for us Peacemaking Gerard F. Powers, Drew Christiansen, Robert T. Hennemeyer, 1994 Written from varying ideological perspectives but united in a concern for the application of moral values to international relations this is a provocative and timely contribution to debate about the current and future course of foreign policy from back cover Governance for Sustainability Klaus Bosselmann, Ron Engel, Prue Taylor, 2008 This report is currently available in an electronic format only To view the report and others published by the International Union for Conservation of Nature IUCN please visit IUCN s website Governance for sustainability is defined as the set of written and unwritten rules that link ecological citizenship with institutions and norms of governance It is a complex topic because it addresses the three issues of globalization democracy and sustainability No form of governance can succeed if there is no common bond between those who govern and those who are being governed The real issue is whether the common good that is the sustainability of life can be pursued through democratic forms of governance This publication compiles information evaluations and case studies to enable the reader to explore and reflect upon governance for sustainability and Ecological Theology E. M. Conradie, 2006-10-01 There has been a proliferation of publications in the field of Christian ecological theology over the last three decades or so These include a number of recent edited volumes each covering a range of topics and consolidating many of the emerging insights in ecological theology The call for Christian churches to respond to the environmental crisis has been reiterated numerous times in this vast corpus of literature also in South Africa

Sustainable Agriculture in the American Midwest Gregory McIsaac, William R. Edwards, 1994 This timely collection provides a general overview and detailed discussion of social and technical issues related to moving toward a culture and practice of sustainable agriculture in the American Midwest It develops the concept that because agriculture does not exist in isolation sustainability must be understood within the context of the many dynamic natural and social systems characteristic of a particular region from climate to culture Scholars from diverse disciplines ecology geography economics agricultural engineering anthropology entomology climatology provide the historical and contemporary context for this vital discussion Greening the College Curriculum Jonathan Collett, Stephen Karakashian, 2013-04-10 Greening the College Curriculum provides the tools college and university faculty need to meet personal and institutional goals for integrating environmental issues into the curriculum Leading educators from a wide range of fields including anthropology biology economics geography history literature journalism philosophy political science and religion describe their experience introducing environmental issues into their teaching The book provides a rationale for including material on the environment in the teaching of the basic concepts of each discipline guidelines for constructing a unit or a full course at the introductory level that makes use of environmental subjects sample plans for upper level courses a compendium of annotated resources both print and nonprint Contributors to the volume include David Orr David G Campbell Lisa Naughton Emily Young John Opie Holmes Rolston III Michael E Kraft Steven Rockefeller and others The Integrated Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Environmentalism S. Steiner-Aeschliman, 1999 The theory and data of environmental science suggest that growth in rates of population consumption and environmental degradation as a result of the activities of industrialized societies has created an ecological crisis to which modern societies must adapt However adaptation is problematic Max Weber studied adaptive social change during the industrial revolution The evolution of this new way of life was initially problematic because individuals who established industrialism were socialized under feudalism In this dissertation I consider The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism as a theoretical treatise framed by modern human ecology in order to study social change in the context of the ecological crisis of industrialism The Protestant Ethic is known for describing how religious ideas influenced the unfolding of modern capitalism in the West However there is nothing inherent in Protestantism that requires linkage to industrialism I argue that Protestantism has evolved and that it need not necessarily promote environmental exploitation although under industrialism it has I identify a green subculture within Protestantism and consider how Protestantism s weakness may also be its strength The very sociological structure that in the absence of ecologically realistic norms permits widespread ecosystem degradation by industrial capitalism may also generate ecologically realistic norms for a natural capitalism Weber contended that rationality was problematic because it paradoxically results in a dual crisis of management and meaning where human agency becomes imprisoned as if in an iron cage The irrational continuation of environmentally degrading social practices eventually contributes to a legitimation crisis People turn to religion as an alternative authority If science and religion converge on environmental values they might catalyze social change unless they are too distorted by ideological bias Adaptive social change only occurs if ethical and ecological values are in accordance with the sustainability of ecosystems Hence to adapt to the ecological crisis sociocultural systems require socialization into ecological realism because ecologically rational societies may still be maladaptively organized around environmentally unsustainable trajectories Ecotheology David G. Hallman, 2009-09-01 A new and urgent item on the agenda of churches around the world is the theological and ethical dimensions of the ecological crisis Highlighted by the United Nations Earth Summit in
