Mediating the Tourist Experience Jo-Anne Lester, Caroline Scarles, 2016-04-29 Traditionally tourism media has referred to the image of destinations constructed through media texts such as brochures and postcards with increasing attention towards other mediascapes such as films and television Yet with prolific advancements in technologies of media communication such traditional formats have experienced a shift in the productive and consumptive practices through which they come into being The possibilities of production and subsequent consumption are unequivocally changing the ways in which tourists imagine understand and engage with destinations This book therefore explores the role of tourism media and mediating practices in the development of non linear processes of communication and understanding as both producers and consumers come together to negotiate the tourist experience In varying ways it examines the emergent relationships and connections between media practices and tourism practices everyday experiences and encounters of place Collectively the authors in this book address a range of media and technologies from brochures television video and film to mediated virtual spaces such as e brochures Internet cultures social networks and Google Earth In doing so the book highlights the continued significance of media in tourism contexts recognising both traditional and newer technologies and the non linear continuous cycle of mediated representations and experiences
