Annabella Boswell's Journal Annabella Boswell, 1965 This is a journals for the period 1830s 1840s Annabella Innes lived near Bathurst Capertee Annabella Boswell's Journal Annabella Boswell, Morton Earle HERMAN, 1965 Annabella Boswells Journal Annabella Boswell, 2001-01-01 Annabella Boswell's Journal Annabella Boswell, 1987 The Cambridge Guide to Women's Writing in English Lorna Sage, 1999-09-30 This Guide aims to consolidate and epitomise the re reading of women's writing that has gone on in the last twenty five years. This is an opportunity for stock taking a timely project when so much writing has been rediscovered reclaimed and republished. There are entries on writers on individual texts and on general terms genres and movements all printed in a single alphabetical sequence. The earliest written documents in medieval English the visionary writings of Julian of Norwich and Margery Kempe are covered in an historical and geographical sweep that takes us up to the present day The book reflects the spread of literacy the history of colonisation and the development of post colonial cultures using and changing the English language The entries are written by contributors from all the countries covered The result is a work of reference with a unique feeling for the vitality wealth and diversity of women s writing Annabella Boswell's Other Journal 1848-1851 Called "Further Recollections of My Early Days in Australia" Annabella Boswell,1992 Annabell Boswell's Journal Annabella Boswell, 1965 Writing a New World Dale Spender, 1988 A history still in the making Australian women writers through their letters diaries and fictions have created a new world of literature Dale Spender in this lively and provocative history of white women's literature presents a fresh and forthright view of the achievements of convict writers to writers and feminists of the nineteenth and twentieth Journal Annabella Boswell, 1965 Account of the early life of Annabella Annabella Boswell's Journal ,1965 centuries Innes from 1826 to 1848 particularly at Capertee and Lake Innes near Port Macquarie includes references to visits by the former Colonial Secretary Alexander Macleay to Lake Innes House very brief passing references to local Aboriginal people including p 37 64 66 81 The First Fleet Piano: Volume One Geoffrey Lancaster, 2015-11-03 During the late eighteenth century a musical cultural phenomenon swept the globe The English square piano invented in the early 1760s by an entrepreneurial German guitar maker in London not only became an indispensable part of social life but also inspired the creation of an expressive and scintillating repertoire Square pianos reinforced music as life s counterpoint and were played by royalty by musicians of the highest calibre and by aspiring amateurs alike On Sunday 13 May 1787 a square piano departed from Portsmouth on board the Sirius the flagship of the First Fleet bound for Botany Bay Who made the First Fleet piano and when was it made Who owned it Who played it and who listened What music did the instrument sound out and within what contexts was its voice heard What became of the First Fleet piano after its arrival on antipodean soil and who played a part in the instrument's subsequent history Two extant instruments contend for the title First Fleet piano which of these made the epic journey to Botany Bay in 1787 88 The First Fleet Piano A Musician's View answers these questions and provides tantalising glimpses of social and cultural life both in Georgian England and in the early colony at Sydney Cove The First Fleet piano is placed within the musical and social contexts for which it was created and narratives of the individuals whose lives have been touched by the instrument are woven together into an account of the First Fleet piano's conjunction with the forces of history View The First Fleet Piano Volume Two Appendices Note Volume 1 and 2 are sold as a set 180 for both and cannot be purchased separately Fundraising, Flirtation and Fancywork Annette Shiell, 2014-07-24 Fundraising Flirtation and Fancywork examines the history and development of the charity bazaar movement in Australia Transported from Britain the charity bazaar played an integral role in Australian communal social and philanthropic life from the early days of European settlement Ranging in size and scale from simple sales of goods to month long extravaganzas charity bazaars were such a popular and successful means of raising revenue that they sustained the majority of the nation s major public and religious institutions The nineteenth century charity bazaar was a paradox On the one hand it encapsulated responsibility and civic duty through its raison detre which was the provision of support for charitable causes On the other it encouraged a loosening of social and gendered restraint as women of the middle and upper classes repositioned themselves in a public space where the acquisition of material goods gambling and flirting with men was actively encouraged From their inception bazaars were the domain of women They provided middle and upper class women with an opportunity to exercise their organisational creative and social skills outside the domestic sphere within a framework of socially acceptable philanthropic endeavour Women s dominance and public role in charity bazaars destabilised conventional gender relations The nucleus of the charity bazaar was the fancywork produced by women for sale on the stalls Bazaars were an accessible and important repository for the display and sale of women s creative work and the bazaar movement was instrumental in shaping women's fancywork Bazaars were revered and reviled in colonial Australia Despite the criticisms and the many social and cultural changes that occurred in nineteenth century Australia charity bazaars continued to escalate in number popularity and complexity They predated and influenced the great international exhibitions and the development of larger shops and emporiums and by the end of the century had evolved into themed entertainment and shopping spectacles known as grand bazaars Charity bazaars mirrored and shaped the social customs mores and fashions of their time and are a rich largely untapped interdisciplinary historical source Bardic Nationalism Katherine M Trumpener, 2021-01-12 This magisterial work links the literary and intellectual history of England Scotland Ireland and Britain's overseas colonies during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries to redraw our picture of the origins of cultural nationalism the lineages of the novel and the literary history of the English speaking world Katie Trumpener recovers and recontextualizes a vast body of fiction to describe the history of the novel during a period of formal experimentation and political engagement between its eighteenth century rise and its Victorian heyday During the late eighteenth century antiquaries in Ireland Scotland and Wales answered modernization and anglicization initiatives with nationalist arguments for cultural preservation Responding in particular to Enlightenment dismissals of Gaelic oral traditions they reconceived national and literary history under the sign of the bard Their pathbreaking models of national and literary history their new way of reading national landscapes and their debates about tradition and cultural transmission shaped a succession of new novelistic genres from Gothic and sentimental fiction to the national tale and the historical novel In Ireland and Scotland these genres were used to mount nationalist arguments for cultural specificity and against internal colonization Yet once exported throughout the nascent British empire they also formed the basis of the first colonial fiction of Canada Australia and British India used not only to attack imperialism but to justify the imperial project Literary forms intended to shore up national memory paradoxically become the means of buttressing imperial ideology and enforcing imperial amnesia Bold Palates Barbara Santich, 2012 Bold Palates is lovingly researched and extensively illustrated Barbara Santich helps us to a deeper understanding of Australian identity by examining the way we eat Not simply a gastronomic history her book is also a history of Australia and Australians Letter Writing in Late Modern Europe Marina Dossena, Gabriella Del Lungo Camiciotti, 2012 In recent years there has been a renewed interest in correspondence both as a literary genre and as cultural practice and several studies have appeared mainly spanning the centuries between Early and Late Modern times However it is between the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries that the roots of contemporary usage begin to evolve thanks to the circulation of new educational materials and more widespread schooling practices In this volume chapters representing diverse but complementary methodological approaches discuss linguistic and discursive practices of correspondence in Late Modern Europe in order to offer material for the comparative cross linguistic analyses of patterns occurring in different social contexts The volume aims to provide a general and solid methodological structure for the study of largely untapped language material from a variety of comparable sources and is expected to appeal to scholars and students interested in the linguistic history of epistolary writing practices as well as to all those interested in the more recent history of European languages

In the Eye of the Beholder Barbara Dawson, 2014-11-19 This book offers a fresh perspective in the debate on settler perceptions of Indigenous Australians It draws together a suite of little known colonial women apart from Eliza Fraser and investigates their writings for what they reveal about their attitudes to views on and beliefs about Aboriginal people as presented in their published works The way that reader expectations and publishers requirements slanted their representations forms part of this analysis All six women write of their first hand experiences on Australian frontiers of settlement The division into adventurers Eliza Fraser Eliza Davies and Emily Cowl and longer term settlers Katherine Kirkland Mary McConnel and Rose Scott Cowen allows interrogation into the differing representations between those with a transitory knowledge of Indigenous people and those who had a close and more permanent relationship with Indigenous women even encompassing individual friendship More pertinently the book strives to reveal the aspects largely overlooked in colonial narratives of Indigenous agency authority and individuality Charles Darwin in Australia F. W. Nicholas, Jan

Nicholas, 2008-11-07 Drawing upon Darwin's diary this lavishly illustrated book traces Darwin's travels in Australia in 1836 The Business of Nature Roslyn Russell, 2011 In 1838 John Gould and his wife Elizabeth left behind their family and home in London to travel to the far flung colony of Van Diemen's Land from where Gould would travel around the mainland to observe the native fauna Gould's artists Elizabeth foremost among them would depict these creatures in exquisite lithographs accompanied by Gould's commentary With all the acumen of a shrewd Victorian entrepreneur Gould established a thriving business that took him into the world of the British aristocracy and the scientific elite His is a tale of enduring love and of a man s unending ability to see beauty in nature despite the greatest of life s tragedies The Scots in Australia Malcolm David Prentis, 2008 This is a highly descriptive account of the Scots in Australia from 1788 to the present It shows that the Scots have made a major contribution to all aspects of Australian life It is aimed at non specialist general readers although much of the audience will be Scottish Provided by publisher The Uses of Literacy in Colonial Australia Martyn Lyons, 2025-10-14 What did Australians read This book answers this question in terms of books rather than newspapers and considers the long nineteenth century interpreted as running from 1788 to 1901 In the wake of this primary question several others arise how did Australians acquire the books they read and how did readers in the outback overcome the handicaps of distance and remoteness Did they read for pleasure instruction self edification or spiritual sustenance More importantly how did Australian readers respond to the books they read The evidence is drawn from autobiographical sources in which individual readers related their personal reading experiences and responses At the same time the book pursues a second and related question What did Australians write Reference is made here not to the kind of writing we know as literature but to the non literary writing which cultural historians call ordinary writings These are the writings of everyday life represented in this book by diaries journals hand written newspapers and correspondence The focus is wide enough to include the everyday cultural practices of people of low social status and little education. The writing practices of the partially literate including writing delegated to a third party have their place here In this double investigation the book draws on evidence from a cohort of 101 nineteenth century readers and writers They are a heterogeneous group of autobiographers coming from Melbourne and Sydney to rural Queensland and Western Australia They come from the city and the bush from coastal towns and the interior from sheep stations gold diggings and city offices They show us the perennial importance of Shakespeare and the Bible the popularity of the English canon the prestige of poetry and the importance of religious reading Books held the Empire together but as they travelled their meanings changed according to the local cultural environment This book registers such nuances in the Australian context The writing of this group is represented by some prolific diarists and correspondents In the late nineteenth century the eastern colonies became world leaders in sending letters The postal environment which made this possible is also examined
