of leadership Exploring the emotional connections that bind charismatic leaders and those who support them he contends that this multifaceted relationship is based on reciprocal need By focusing on prominent figures throughout history who have altered the lives of their followers in profound ways Popper shows how these leaders reinvented and disseminated value systems for good e g Nelson Mandela but often for ill e g Hitler Whether the influence of a charismatic leader is destructive and negative or constructive and positively transformative this intriguing work argues that the reciprocal process that takes place between leader and follower as well as key formative events in the lives of leaders are surprisingly similar Using such famous and infamous leaders as Mahatma Gandhi Nelson Madela Franklin Delano Roosevelt Hitler Charles Manson and Jim Jones Popper defines and explores three types of leader follower relationships Regressive relationships which are characterized by mutual dependence Symbolic relationships which are rooted in symbolic meaning Developmental transformational relationships which permit positive moral and emotional development Development and Change of Political Libertarianism Among Berkeley Undergraduates Henry C.
