Annual Review Of Ecology And Systematics Vol 11:

Ecology, Sustainable Development and Accounting Seleshi Sisaye, 2015-08-11 Accounting literature has viewed sustainability in terms of social economic and environmental performances. There have been concerns that the relationship between sustainability accounting and organizational performance cannot be explained unless we can deduce patterns of administrative behaviour that chronicle management practices. Ecology Sustainable Development and Accounting argues that despite the broader social and economic development dimensions of sustainability and the limitations of its extension to corporate and organizational behaviour, an ecological framework is capable of providing the overall societal and community chronologies that describe corporate sustainable operations. Drawing examples from international development and federal government organizations, this book documents the link between ecology, corporate sustainable development and sustainability accounting and reporting. It draws together the literature from several disciplines to elaborate the contribution of the ecological approach to sustainable development in the accounting literature. This book will be of particular interest to students, academics and practitioners in the areas of environmental studies, ecological economics, sustainable development studies and social and environmental accounting. The sociological and anthropological perspectives make this book the first of its kind to apply the population ecology of sociology to both the sustainability and accounting literature. The Economics of Ecosystems and Biodiversity: Ecological and Economic Foundations Pushpam Kumar, 2012-12-20 Human well-being relies critically on ecosystem services provided by nature. Examples include water and air quality regulation, nutrient cycling and decomposition, plant pollination and flood control, all of which are dependent on biodiversity. They are predominantly public goods with limited or no markets and do not command any price in the conventional economic system, so their loss is often not detected and continues unaddressed and unabated. This in turn not only impacts human well-being but also seriously undermines the sustainability of the economic system. It is against this background that TEEB The Economics of Ecosystems and Biodiversity project was set up in 2007 and led by the United Nations Environment Programme to provide a comprehensive global assessment of economic aspects of these issues. This book, written by a team of international experts, represents the scientific state of the art, providing a comprehensive assessment of the fundamental ecological and economic principles of measuring and valuing ecosystem services and biodiversity and showing how these can be mainstreamed into public policies. This volume and subsequent TEEB outputs will provide the authoritative knowledge and guidance to drive forward the biodiversity conservation agenda for the next decade. Aquatic Toxicology and Hazard: Sixth Symposium, Biological Data in Water Pollution Assessment: Quantitative and Statistical Analyses, 1978 Governing Global Desertification Pierre Marc Johnson, 2016-12-05 Desertification affects 70 per cent of the world's arable lands in more than 100 countries. Inextricably linked to poverty, it is estimated that the livelihood of 250 million people are directly affected while another billion living in rural drylands are threatened by this phenomenon This volume examines the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification UNCCD signed in 1994 It studies the links between land degradation and poverty the role of civil society and good governance in implementing the UNCCD and the various approaches to fighting desertification Furthermore it assesses the National Action Programmes development planning and new avenues for strengthening implementation Synthesizing the main strengths and weaknesses of the UNCCD as a tool for environmental and developmental governance this informative volume highlights the main challenges facing the UNCCD in the future     The Routledge Handbook of International Resilience David Chandler,Jon Coaffee,2016-11-10 Resilience is increasingly discussed as a key concept across many fields of international policymaking from sustainable development and climate change insecurity conflict and terrorism to urban and rural planning international aid provision and the prevention of and responses to natural and man made disasters Edited by leading academic authorities from a number of disciplines this is the first handbook to deal with resilience as a new conceptual approach to understanding and addressing a range of interdependent global challenges The Handbook is divided into nine sections Introduction contested paradigms of resilience the challenges of resilience governing uncertainty resilience and neoliberalism environmental concerns and climate change adaptation urban planning disaster risk reduction and response international security and insecurity the policy and practices of international development Highlighting how resilience thinking is increasingly transforming international policy making and government and institutional practices this book will be an indispensable source of information for students academics and the wider public interested in resilience international relations and international security     Biological Data in Water Pollution Assessment ,1978     Nature Strange and Beautiful Egbert Giles Leigh, Jr.,2019-08-20 A beautifully written exploration of how cooperation shaped life on earth from its single celled beginnings to complex human societies In this rich wide ranging beautifully illustrated volume Egbert Leigh explores the results of billions of years of evolution at work Leigh who has spent five decades on Panama s Barro Colorado Island reflecting on the organization of various amazingly diverse tropical ecosystems now shows how selection on selfish genes gives rise to complex modes of cooperation and interdependence With the help of such artists as the celebrated nature photographer Christian Ziegler natural history illustrator Deborah Miriam Kaspari and Damond Kylo Leigh explains basic concepts of evolutionary biology ranging from life s single celled beginnings to the complex societies humans have formed today The book covers a range of topics focusing on adaptation competition mutualism heredity natural selection sexual selection genetics and language Leigh s reflections on evolution competition and cooperation show how the natural world becomes even more beautiful when viewed in the light of evolution     Water Resources in Mexico Úrsula Oswald Spring,2011-08-26 Water resources in Mexico are threatened by scarcity pollution and climate change In two decades water consumption doubled producing water stress in dry seasons and semi arid and arid regions Water stress rises due to physical and economic stress In seven parts a multidisciplinary team analyzes hydrological processes in basins and their interaction with climate soil and biota Competing water use in agriculture industry and domestic needs require savings decontamination processes and desalination to satisfy the growing demand Water quality affects health and ecosystems This creates conflicts and cooperation that may be enhanced by public policy institution building and social organization      Annual Review of Phytopathology Grogan Raymond G.,1983      International Encyclopedia of Geography, 15 Volume Set Noel Castree,Michael F. Colombo,2023-07-31 Evolution and the Human Animal Drive to Conflict examines how fundamental universal animal drives such as dominance prevalence survival kinship and profit greed advantage whether of material or social nature provide the basis for the evolutionary trap that promotes the unstable conflictive dominant prone individual and group human behaviours Examining this behavioural tension this book argues that while these innate features set up behaviours that lean towards aggression influenced by social inequalities the means implemented to defuse them resort to emotional and intellectual strategies that sponsor fanaticism and often reproduce the very same behaviours they intend to defuse In addressing these concerns the book argues that we should enhance our resources to promote solidarity accept cultural differences deter expansionist and uncontrolled profit drives and achieve collective access towards knowledge and progress in living conditions This entails promoting the redistribution of resources and creative labour access and avoiding policies that generate a fragmented world with collective and individual development disparities that invite and encourage dominance behaviours This resource redistribution asserts that it is necessary to reformulate the global set of human priorities towards increased access to better living conditions cognitive enhancement a more amiable interaction with the ecosystem and non aggressive cultural differences promote universal access to knowledge and enhance creativity and cultural convivence These behavioural changes entail partial derangement of our ancestral animal drives camouflaged under different cultural profiles until the species succeeds in replacing the dominance of basic animal drives with prosocial collective ones Though it entails a formidable task of confronting financial military and religious powers and cultural inertias human history is also a challenging continuous experience in these domains for the sake of our own self identity and self evaluation we should reject any suggestion of not continuing embracing slowly constructing collective utopias channelled towards improving individual and collective freedom and creativeness This book will interest academics and students in social cognitive and evolutionary psychology the neurosciences palaeoanthropology philosophy and anthropology

Ecosystem Services from Agriculture and Agroforestry Bruno Rapidel, Fabrice DeClerck, Jean Francois Le Coq, John Beer, 2012-06-25 Agricultural systems are no longer evaluated solely on the basis of the food they provide but also on their capacity to limit impacts on the environment such as soil conservation water quality and biodiversity conservation as well as their contribution to mitigating and adapting to climate change In order to cope with these multiple service functions they must internalize the costs and benefits of their environmental impact Payments for ecosystem services are hoped to encourage and promote sustainable practices via financial incentives The authors show that while the principle is straightforward the practice is much more complicated Whereas scenic beauty and protection of water sources provide benefits to the local population carbon sequestration and biodiversity conservation can be considered international public goods rendering potential payment schemes more complex Few examples exist where national or international bodies have been able to set up viable mechanisms that compensate agricultural systems for the environmental services they provide However this book provides several examples of successful programs and aims to transfer them to other regions of the world The authors show that a product can be sold if it is clearly quantified there exists a means to determine the service s values and there is a willing buyer The first two sections of the book present methodological issues related to the quantification and marketing of ecosystem services from agriculture including agroforestry The third and final section presents case studies of practical payments for ecosystem services and experiences in Central and South America and draws some lessons learnt for effective and sustainable development of ecosystem services compensation mechanisms
