Songs in Their Heads Patricia Shehan Campbell,2010 Songs in Their Heads is a vivid and engaging book that bridges the disciplines of music education ethnomusicology and folklore This revised and expanded edition includes additional case studies updated illustrative material and a new section exploring the relationship between children s musical practices and current technological advances Designed as a text or supplemental text for a variety of music education methods courses as well as a reference for music specialists and classroom teachers this book can also help parents understand and enhance their own children s music making Becoming What We Sing David Lemley,2021-01-07 Contemporary worship music is ubiquitous in many Protestant Christian communities today Rather than debating or decrying this post worship wars reality David Lemley accepts it as a premise and examines what it means for us to be singing along with songs that aren t so different from the pop genre How do we cope with the consumerism embedded in the mentality that catchy is good How do we stay committed to subverting cultural norms as Christians are called to do when our music is modeled after those cultural norms How do we ensure that the way we participate in the liturgy of contemporary worship music rehearses a cruciform identity Becoming What We Sing draws on cultural criticism ethnomusicology and liturgical and sacramental theology to process the deluge of the contemporary in today s worship music Lemley probes the thought of historical figures such as Augustine Hildegard of Bingen Martin Luther and the Wesleys while also staying situated in the current moment by engaging with cultural philosophers such as James K A Smith and popular artists such as U2 The result is a thorough assessment of contemporary worship music s cultural economy that will guide readers toward greater consciousness of who we are becoming as we sing our way into selves societies and cosmic perspectives Enter at Your Own Risk Sandra

Terry,Neil A. Wynn,2012-07-02 This book presents a collection of essays on the debates about origins authenticity and identity in folk and blues music The essays had their origins in an international conference on the Transatlantic routes of American roots music out of which emerged common themes and questions of origins and authenticity in folk music black and white American and British The central theme is musical influences but issues of identity national local and racial are also recurring subjects The extent to which these identities were invented imagined or constructed by the performers or by those who recorded their work for posterity is also a prominent concern and questions of racial identity are particularly central The book features a new essay on the blues by Paul Oliver alongside an essay on Oliver s seminal blues scholarship There are also several essays on British blues and the links between performers and styles in the United States and Britain and new essays on critical figures such as Alan Lomax and Woody Guthrie This volume uniquely offers perspectives from both sides of the Atlantic on the connections and interplay of influences in roots music and the debates about these subjects drawing on the work of eminent established scholars and emerging young academics who are already making a contribution to the field Throughout the contributors offer the most recent scholarship available on key issues
