Baby Hunger The New Battle For Motherhood:

Baby Hunger Sylvia Ann Hewlett, 2002 Nearly half of all highly educated high earning women are childless The more successful the woman the less likely it is she has a partner or a baby For men the opposite is true the more successful he is professionally the more likely it is that he will be married with children These women have not chosen to be childless Indeed most of them yearn for a baby and have gone to extraordinary lengths to become pregnant often derailing their careers in the process However this volume reminds us that despite the allure and apparent success of IVF treatment only three to five per cent of women aged 40 and above manage to conceive this way The age old business of having babies is eluding an entire generation of successful women they can be astronauts chief executives and politicians but increasingly they cannot be mothers This text looks at why

Postfeminist Celebrity and Motherhood Jorie Lagerwey, 2016-09-01 This book analyzes the intersections of celebrity self branding and mommy culture It examines how images of celebrity moms playing versions of themselves on reality television social media gossip sites and self branded retail outlets negotiate the complex demands of postfeminism and the current fashion for heroic labor intensive parenting The cultural regime of new momism insists that women be expert in both affective and economic labor producing loving families self brands based on emotional connections with consumers and lucrative saleable commodities Successfully creating all three a self brand a style of motherhood and lucrative product sales is represented as the only path to fulfilled adult womanhood and citizenship The book interrogates the classed and racialized privilege inherent in those success stories and looks for ways that the versions of branded motherhood represented as failures might open a space for a more inclusive emergent feminism Managing the Monstrous Feminine

Standing Up to Supernanny Jennie Bristow, 2013-09-09 Parenthood we are told requires a massive adjustment to our lives emotions and relationships and we have to be taught how to deal with that But can it really be so bad that we need constant counselling and parenting classes It is a myth that today's parents are hopeless and lazy in many ways we have become too diligent too hopeful of great outcomes and clear rewards to the point where we lose ourselves in trying to provide some kind of professional service to our children The current obsession with perfect parenting increases our insecurity and distrust of each other and diminishes our authority over our kids This book is about asking Why have we invited Supernanny into our living rooms and how can we kick her out

Surrogacy and the Reproduction of Normative Family on TV Lulu Le Vay,2019-05-23 This book examines the proliferation of surrogacy storylines on TV exploring themes of infertility motherhood parenting and family It investigates how despite reproductive technologies ability to flex contours of family the shows narratives work to uphold the white heterosexual genetically reproduced family as the ideal In dialogue with responses from a range of female viewers both mothers and non mothers the book scrutinises the construction of family ideology on television with studies including Coronation Street 1960 present Giuliana is homosexuality only acceptable when it echoes heterosexual norms Are female characters only fulfilled when they are genetic mothers Does heterosexual romance override technology in the cure for infertility While the answers to these questions may suggest that television still conforms to heteronormative narratives this book importantly demonstrates that audiences desire alternative happy endings that show infertile female characters more positively and recognise alternative kinship formations as meaningful

The Fragmenting Family Brenda Almond,2008-08-28 Brenda Almond throws down a timely challenge to liberal consensus about personal relationships She maintains that the traditional family is fragmenting in Western societies causing serious social problems She urges that we reconsider our attitudes to sex and reproduction in order to strengthen our most important social institution the family

From Superwomen to Domestic Goddesses Natasha Campo,2009 This book examines the rise and fall of feminism in the public imagination in the last twenty years and explains why feminism failed me has become the catch cry of a generation Today many women turn their back on feminism because they feel betrayed by the promises of feminism Yet during the 1980s the popular ideal of the Superwoman offered a source of empowerment and pride for women and equality with men even having it all seemed possible Through a close reading of popular culture sources this book shows how women's engagement with feminism has shifted over time and considers its future as a social movement

The Future of Motherhood in Western Societies Gijs Beets,Joop Schippers,Egbert R. te Velde,2010-12-06 Most people value to have children still highly But what is the optimal moment to have the first The decision on having children or not and if yes on the timing of the first is one of the most difficult ones to make also because it more or less coincides with various other heavy decisions on shaping the life course like on union formation labour market career housing accommodation etc People realise that having children will fundamentally change their life and in order to fit this unknown and irreversible adventure perfectly into their life course postponement of the first birth is an easy way out as long as doubts continue and partners try to make up their mind Modern methods of birth control are of course a very effective help in that period What is the best moment to have the first child And to what moment is postponement justified There are no easy answers to these questions Best solutions vary per person as they depend on personal circumstances and considerations the partner may have conflicting ideas housing accommodation job income free time activities Existing parental leave and child care arrangements are weighted as well Unfortunately the biological clock ticks further And also unfortunately assisted reproductive technology IVF etc is unable to guarantee a successful outcome Several couples end up without children involuntarily and that may lead to sorrow and grief This interdisciplinary book overviews the process of postponement and its backgrounds in modern Western societies holistically both at the personal and the societal level Contributions come from reproductive evolutionary biological and neurological sciences as well as from demography economy sociology and psychology It holds not only at women but also at men becoming first time fathers The discussion boils down to a new policy approach for motherhood and emancipation on how to shape work and family life It is argued that a public window where one can compose a cafeteria like set of supportive arrangements according to personal preferences could lead to a break in the rising age at first motherhood The Truth About Feminism B.P. grounded in the viewpoints of a group of Japanese mothers. It adopts a new approach in studying the decreasing fertility rates which are contributing to the ageing population in modern Japan. Based on the accounts of 57 married Japanese women, it employs symbolic interactionism as a framework to examine the various factors affecting decision making on childbirth. The influence of Assisted Reproductive Technologies (ARTs), abortion and contraception in the daily interactions and experiences of the mothers are analysed to offer a new perspective on the Japanese demographic conundrum. With strong contextual information as the foundation, the book contributes fresh insight into how Japanese women perceive the idea of childbirth in a modernized society and also assists our understanding of the factors causing Japan's ageing population. Further, it places the mothers' experiences within current global debates to highlight the salience of the Japanese case. As the first book to provide an in-depth examination of the social process underpinning the decision to become a mother in Japan, it will appeal to students and scholars of Japanese culture and society, Gender Studies and Sociology.

The Demography of Europe Gerda Neyer, Gunnar Andersson, Hill Kulu, Laura Bernardi, Christoph Bühler, 2013-04-22. Over the past decades, Europe has witnessed fundamental changes of its population dynamics and population structure. Fertility has fallen below replacement level in almost all European countries, while childbearing behavior and family formation have become more diverse. Life expectancy has increased in Western Europe for both females and males, but has been declining for men in some Eastern European countries. Immigration from non-European countries has increased substantially, as has mobility within Europe. These changes pose major challenges to population studies, as conventional theoretical assumptions regarding demographic behavior and demographic development seem unfit to provide convincing explanations of the recent demographic changes. This book, derived from the symposium on The Demography of Europe held at the Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research in Rostock, Germany, in November 2007, in honor of Professor Jan M. Hoem, brings together leading population researchers in the area of fertility, family migration, life expectancy and mortality. The contributions present key issues of the new demography of Europe and discuss key research advances to understand the continent's demographic development at the turn of the 21st century.

EBOOK: Embodying Women's Work Caroline Gatrell, 2008-09-16. What is the relationship between women's reproductive bodies and women's productive work? How does women's potential for maternity affect women's workplace opportunity? How far can women choose and maintain their own embodied boundaries in relation to work and working practices? This fascinating and topical book evaluates the growing debate on gender, women's bodies and work. Through the lens of the body and from a feminist perspective, Gatrell considers women's work from two angles: the first conceptualizing the labour of maternity as women's work; the second exploring the dynamics between women's bodies and employment. The author suggests that maternity constitutes women's work, with some women expected to produce children while others are criticised for giving birth. She calls for the re-conceptualization of pregnancy, birth and breastfeeding as forms of labour, asserting that mothers are required to perform particular forms of body work in order to comply with ideals of good mothering and norms of the workplace The book observes that these are conflicting requirements which place irreconcilable demands on women and constrain women's choice At the heart of Embodying Women's Work is the idea that women's bodies are central to gendered power relations and remain a negotiated site of power between men and women within late modern society The book considers women's bodies in the context of different forms of paid work discussing how far women remain at an economic disadvantage in comparison with male workers Embodying Women's Work is of key interest for students and academics of sociology social welfare and women's studies
