Subcommittee on Investigations and Oversight, 1985 Central City's Joy and Pain Jerome E. Morris, 2024-01-15 With Central City's Joy and Pain Jerome E. Morris explores complex social issues through personal narrative He does so by blending social science research with his own memoir of life in Birmingham Alabama As someone who lived in the Central City housing project for two transitional decades 1968-91 and whose family continued to reside there until 1999 when the city razed the community the author provides us with the often unexplored bottom up perspective on Black public housing residents' experiences As Morris's experiential and authoritative narrative voice unfolds in the pages of Central City's Joy and Pain both the scholarly and lay reader are brought on a journey of what life is like for people who live and die at the intersection of race and poverty in a rapidly evolving southern urban center The setting of a historic public housing community provides a rich canvas on which to paint a world through the author's personal experience of growing up there and his later observations as a researcher and academic Through its syncopation of personal stories and scholarly research Central City's Joy and Pain captures what it means to be Black poor and full of dreams In this setting dreams are realized by some and swallowed up for others in the larger historical social economic and political context of African Americans' experiences during and after the civil rights movement Cases Decided in the Court of Claims of the United States at the ... with the Rules of Practice and the Acts of Congress Relating to the Court United States. Marchevsky, Jeanne Theoharis, 2006-04-10 Not Working chronicles the devastating effects of the 1996 welfare reform legislation that ended welfare as we know it For those who now receive public assistance work means pleading with supervisors for full time hours juggling ever changing work schedules and shuffling between dead end jobs that leave one physically and psychically exhausted Through vivid story telling and pointed analysis Not Working profiles the day to day struggles of Mexican immigrant women in the Los Angeles area showing the increased vulnerability they face in the welfare office and labor market The new work first policies now enacted impose time limits and mandate work requirements for those receiving public assistance yet fail to offer real job training or needed childcare options ultimately causing many families to fall deeper below the poverty line Not Working shows that the new welfare to work regime has produced tremendous instability and insecurity for these women and their children Moreover the authors argue that the new politics of welfare enable greater infringements of rights and liberty for many of America s most vulnerable and constitute a crucial component of the broader assault on American citizenship In short the new welfare is not working Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States.
