Snow, Cindy White, 2023-09-01 Exploring locales such as city streets bus stops parking lots bars retail establishments and discussion groups Together Alone ventures into what is often thought of as the realm of passing strangers to examine the nature of personal relationships conducted in public spaces While most studies of social interaction have gone behind closed doors to focus on relationships in the family school and workplace this innovative collection pushes the boundaries of the field by analyzing both fleeting and anchored relationships in the seldom studied communal areas where much of contemporary life takes place The contributors shed light on the diversity and character of day to day negotiations in public spaces and at the same time illuminate how these social ties paradoxically blend aspects of durability and brevity of emotional closeness and distance of being together and alone Exploring locales such as city streets bus stops parking lots bars retail establishments and discussion groups Together Alone ventures into what is often thought of as the realm of passing strangers to examine the nature of personal relations I'm No Angel Ellen Tremper, 2006 Have you ever wondered why there are so many dumb blonde jokes always about women Or how Ivanhoe's childhood love the flaxen Saxon Rowena morphed into Marilyn Monroe Between that season in 1847 when readers encountered Becky Sharp playing the vengeful Clytemnestra about to plunge a dagger into Agamemnon and the sunny moment in 1932 when moviegoers watched Clark Gable plunge Jean Harlow's platinum tressed head into a rain barrel the playing field for women and men had leveled considerably But how did the fairy tale blonde that placid pliant girl become the tomato upstairs as Monroe styled herself in The Seven Year Itch In I'm No Angel The Blonde in Fiction and Film Ellen Tremper shows how at its roots the image of the blonde was remodeled by women writers in the nineteenth century and actors in the twentieth to keep pace with the changes in real women's lives As she demonstrates through these novels and performances fair hair and its traditional attributes patience pliancy endurance and innocence suffered a deliberate alienation which both reflected and enhanced women's personal and social freedoms essential to the evolution of modernity From fiction to film the active desiring and sometimes difficult women who disobeyed manipulated and thwarted their fellow characters mimicked and furthered women's growing power in the world The author concludes with an overview of the various roles of the blonde in film from the 1960s to the present and speculates about the possible end of blond dominance An engaging and lively read I m No Angel will appeal to a general audience interested in literary and cinematic representations of the blonde as well as to scholars in Victorian women s and film studies
