Once Upon a Time... in Hollywood: The End of the Golden Age and the Birth of New Hollywood Tim Madsen, Once Upon a Time in Hollywood: The End of the Golden Age and the Birth of New Hollywood takes readers on an illuminating journey through one of Quentin Tarantino's most enigmatic and passionate films Blending meticulous historical research with sharp cultural analysis this book explores how Once Upon a Time in Hollywood serves as both an elegy for a vanished Hollywood and a vibrant chronicle of the revolutionary forces that gave rise to New Hollywood Across ten engaging chapters the book examines The decline of the classic studio system and the forces reshaping American cinema in the 1960s The symbolic weight of characters like Rick Dalton Cliff Booth and Sharon Tate The Western as a dying genre and its reinvention through revisionist storytelling The haunting presence of the Manson Family and the cultural rupture they embodied Tarantino's daring use of alternate history and the ethical questions it raises Los Angeles itself as a character myth and cinematic playground The double edged power of nostalgia and its impact on memory and identity For film lovers cultural historians and Tarantino enthusiasts alike this book offers fresh insights into how Once Upon a Time in Hollywood captures a moment of seismic change both in Hollywood and in American society It is a thoughtful meditation on cinema's unique power to reimagine the past and on the stories we choose to tell again and again under the bright lights of the silver screen Step into 1969 Los Angeles where the old Hollywood dream was fading a new cinematic revolution was dawning and once upon a time anything seemed possible

Point Blank Eric Wilson, 2023-09-07 John Boorman's Point Blank 1967 has long been recognised as one of the seminal films of the sixties with its revisionary mix of genres including neo noir New Wave and spaghetti western Its lasting influence can be traced throughout the decades in films like Mean Streets 1973 Reservoir Dogs 1992 Heat 1995 The Limey 1999 and Memento 2000 Eric Wilson's compelling study of the film examines its significance to New Hollywood cinema He argues that Boorman revises traditional Hollywood crime films by probing a second connotation of point blank On the one hand it is a neo noir that aptly depicts close range violence but it also points toward blankness a nothingness that is the consequence of corporate America unchecked where humans are reduced to commodities and stripped of agency and playfulness He goes on to reimagine the film's experimental style as a representation of and possible remedy for trauma Examining Boorman's formal innovations including his favouring of gesture over language and blurring of boundaries between dream and reality he also positions the film as a grimly comical exploration of toxic masculinity and gender fluidity Wilson's close reading of Point Blank reveals it to be a film that innovatively inflects its own generation and speaks powerfully to our own arguing that it is this amplitude which encompasses the many major films it has influenced that qualifies the film as a classic

Transformation and Tradition in 1960s British Cinema Richard Farmer,2019-05-03 Making substantial use of new and underexplored archive resources that provide a wealth of information and insight on the period in question this book offers a fresh perspective on the major resurgence of creativity and international appeal experienced by British cinema in the 1960s

Other Hollywood Renaissance Dominic Lennard,2020-09-09 In the late 1960s the collapse of the classic Hollywood studio system led in part and for less than a decade to a production trend heavily influenced by the international art cinema Reflecting a new self-consciousness in the US about the national film patrimony this period is known as the Hollywood Renaissance However critical study of the period is generally associated with its so-called principal auteurs slighting a number of established and emerging directors who were responsible for many of the era's most innovative and artistically successful releases With contributions from leading film scholars this book provides a revisionist account of this creative resurgence by discussing and memorializing twenty-four directors of note who have not yet been given a proper place in the larger history of the period Including filmmakers such as Hal Ashby John Frankenheimer Mike Nichols and Joan Micklin Silver this more expansive approach to the auteurism of the late 1960s and 1970s seems not only appropriate but pressing a necessary element of the re-evaluation of Hollywood with which cinema studies has been preoccupied under the challenges posed by the emergence and flourishing of new media

Fifth Avenue, 5 A.M. Sam Wasson,2011-09-25 Before Breakfast at Tiffany's Audrey Hepburn was still a little-known actress with few film roles to speak of after it indeed because of it she was one of the world's most famous fashion style and screen icons It was this film that matched her with Hubert de Givenchy's little black dress Meanwhile Truman Capote's original novel is itself a modern classic selling huge numbers every year and its high-living author of perennial interest Now this little book tells the story of how it all happened how Audrey got the role for which at first she wasn't considered and which she at first didn't want how long it took to get the script right how it made Blake Edwards name as a director after too many trashy films had failed to and how Henry Mancini's soundtrack with its memorable signature tune Moon River completed the irresistible package This is the story of how one shy uncertain inexperienced young actress was persuaded to take on a role she at first thought too hard-edged and amoral and how it made Audrey Hepburn into a gamine elusive Holly Golightly in the little black dress and a star for the rest of her life
