often flatly denied on the grounds that such an acknowledgment will impede women's claims to equal treatment. In Caring for Justice, Robin West turns her sensitive measured eye to the consequences of this widespread refusal to consider how women's lived experiences and perspectives may differ from those of men. Her work calls attention to two critical areas in which an inadequate recognition of women's distinctive experiences has failed jurisprudence. We are in desperate need, she contends, both of a theory of justice which incorporates women's distinctive moral voice on the meaning of justice into our discourse and of a theory of harm which better acknowledges compensates and seeks to prevent the various harms which women disproportionately and distinctively suffer. Providing a fresh feminist perspective on traditional jurisprudence, West examines such issues as the nature of justice, the concept of harm, economic theories of value and the utility of constitutional discourse. She illuminates the adverse repercussions of the anti-essentialist position for jurisprudence and offers strategies for correcting them. Far from espousing a return to essentialism, West argues an anti-anti-essentialism which greatly refines our understanding of the similarities and differences between women and men. Celestial Messages Suroso Mun, 2012-07

Everything in this world is born out of the same root and has a similar origin. Though things look all different, they are actually the same, like the leaves on the left and those on the right. If you always look at things with a humble mind and examine them closely, you will get to know that there is nothing irrelevant to the Universe. Begin every day with gratitude and end every day with gratitude and lead a pleasant and leisurely life. Your life is the only thing that you can create.
