The Sensory Modes of Animal Rhetorics Alex C. Parrish, 2021-07-14 The Sensory Modes of Animal Rhetorics A Hoot in the Light presents the latest research in animal perception and cognition in the context of rhetorical theory Alex C Parrish explores the science of animal signaling that shows human and nonhuman animals share similar rhetorical strategies such as communicating to manipulate or persuade which suggests the vast impact sensory modalities have on communication in nature The book demonstrates new ways of seeing humans and how we have separated ourselves from and subjectified the animal rhetor This type of cross species study allows us to trace the origins of our own persuasive behaviors providing a deeper and more inclusive history of rhetoric than ever before

Sensory Tourism Ian S. Jenkins, Robert S. Bristow, 2024-11-13 Tourism offers countless global locations providing a multitude of sensory experiences These include commercialised tourism products such as saunas and floatation tanks through to natural phenomenon such as mountains and wilderness destinations Consequently sensory elements are a curious concept within tourism because every destination provides a sensory experience of one kind or another The first of its kind this book examines holidays and tourism through sensory perceptions which either encourage or deter consumers. It studies sensoryscapes and how they effect and affect tourism at destinations and be linked with the development of tourist niches reflecting the segmenting of the mass market tourism into smaller segments. Finally it reflects on how with increased urbanisation there a growing need is to find quiet spaces free from urban or anthropogenic noise such as silent retreats and dark sky meditation holidays. Escape has always been one of the main components of tourism development together with attraction to spatial locations that match tourists needs. It will be of interest to those studying tourism management as well as wider social science disciplines.

Experiencing Animal Minds Julie Ann Smith, Robert W. Mitchell, 2012. In these multidisciplinary essays, academic scholars and animal experts explore the nature of animal minds and the methods humans conventionally and unconventionally use to understand them. The collection features chapters by scholars working in psychology, sociology, history, philosophy, literary studies, and art, as well as chapters by and about people who live and work with animals, including the founder of a sanctuary for chickens, a fur trapper, a popular canine psychologist, a horse trainer, and an art photographer who captures everyday contact between humans and their animal companions. Divided into five sections, the collection first considers the ways that humans live with animals and the influence of cohabitation on their perceptions of animals' minds. It follows with an examination of anthropomorphism as both a guide and hindrance to mapping animal consciousness. Chapters next examine the effects of embodiment on animals' minds.

and the role of animal human interembodiment on humans understandings of animals minds Final sections identify historical representations of difference between human and animal consciousness and their relevance to pre established cultural attitudes as well as the ways that representations of animals minds target particular audiences and sometimes produce problematic outcomes The editors conclude with a discussion of the relationship between the book s chapters and two pressing themes the connection between human beliefs about animals minds and human ethical behavior and the challenges and conditions for knowing the minds of animals By inviting readers to compare and contrast multiple uncommon points of view this collection offers a unique encounter with the diverse perspectives and theories now shaping animal studies
