The Triassic System: New Developments in Stratigraphy and Paleontology
 Lawrence H. Tanner, Justin A. Spielmann, Spencer G. Lucas, 2013

The Trace-Fossil Record of Major Evolutionary Events
 M. Gabriela Mángano, Luis A. Buatois, 2016-11-17

This volume addresses major evolutionary changes that took place during the Mesozoic and the Cenozoic. These include discussions on major evolutionary radiations and ecological innovations on land and at sea such as the Mesozoic marine revolution, the Mesozoic radiation of vertebrates, the Mesozoic lacustrine revolution, the Cenozoic radiation of mammals, the evolution of paleosol biotas and the evolution of hominins. The roles of mass extinctions at the end of the Triassic and at the end of the Cretaceous are assessed. This volume set provides innovative reviews of the major evolutionary events in the history of life from an ichnologic perspective. Because the long temporal range of trace fossils has been commonly emphasized, biogenic structures have been traditionally overlooked in macroevolution. However, comparisons of ichnofaunas through geologic time do reveal the changing ecology of organism-substrate interactions. The use of trace fossils in evolutionary paleoecology represents a new trend that is opening a window for our understanding of major evolutionary radiations and mass extinctions. Trace fossils provide crucial evidence for the recognition of spatial and temporal patterns and processes associated with paleoecologic breakthroughs.

Life Traces of the Georgia Coast
 Anthony J. Martin, 2013-01-14

Have you ever wondered what left behind those prints and tracks on the seashore or what made those marks or dug those holes in the dunes? Life Traces of the Georgia Coast is an up-close look at these traces of life and the animals and plants that made them. It tells about how the tracemakers lived and how they interacted with their environments. This is a book about ichnology, the study of such traces, and a wonderful way to learn about the behavior of organisms living and long extinct. Life Traces presents an overview of the traces left by modern animals and plants in this biologically rich region, shows how life traces relate to the environments, natural history, and behaviors of their tracemakers, and applies that knowledge toward a better understanding of the fossilized traces that ancient life left in the geologic record. Augmented by illustrations of traces made by both ancient and modern organisms, the book shows how ancient trace fossils directly relate to modern traces and tracemakers among them: insects, grasses, crabs, shorebirds, alligators, and sea turtles. The result is an aesthetically appealing and scientifically grounded book that will serve as a source both for scientists and for anyone interested in the natural history of the Georgia coast.

Animal Lessons
 Kelly Oliver, 2009

Philosophy reads humanity against animality, arguing that man is man because he is separate from beast. Deftly challenging this position, Kelly Oliver proves that in fact it is the animal that teaches us to be human. Through their sex, their habits, and our perception of their purpose, animals show us how not to be them. This kinship plays out in a number of ways. We sacrifice animals to establish human kinship, but without the animal, the bonds of brotherhood fall apart. Either kinship with animals is possible or kinship with humans is impossible. Philosophy holds that humans and animals are distinct, but in defending this position the discipline depends on a discourse that relies on the animal for its very definition of the human Through these and other examples Oliver does more than just establish an animal ethics She transforms ethics by showing how its very origin is dependent upon the animal Examining for the first time the treatment of the animal in the work of Heidegger Merleau Ponty Derrida Agamben Freud Lacan and Kristeva among others Animal Lessons argues that the animal bites back thereby reopening the question of the animal for philosophy
