The Beach in Anglophone Literatures and Cultures Ursula Kluwick, Virginia Richter, 2016-03-09 From early colonial encounters to the ecological disasters of the twenty first century the performativity of contact has been a crucial element in the political significance of the beach Conceptualising the beach as a creative trope and as a socio cultural site as well as an aesthetically productive topography this collection examines its multiplicity of meanings and functions as a natural environment engendering both desire and fear in the human imagination from the Victorian period to the present The contributors examine literature film and art in addition to moments of encounter and environmental crisis to highlight the beach as a social space inspiring particular codes of behaviour and specific discourses as a geographical frontier between land and water as an historical site of contact and conflict and as a vacationscape promising regeneration and withdrawal from everyday life The diversity of the beach is reflected in the geographical range with essays on locales and texts from Britain Ireland the Caribbean South Africa the United States Polynesia and New Zealand Focusing on the changed function of the beach as a result of processes of industrialisation and the rise of a modern leisure and health culture this interdisciplinary volume theorises the beach as a demarcator of the precarious boundary between land and the sea as well as between nature and culture

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2001 Subject Guide to Forthcoming Books, 1983 Presents by subject the same titles that are listed by author and title in Forthcoming books Books in Print, 1991 The Animal in the Secret World of Darwin Michel Bergeron, 2011-03-03 Scientist Charles Darwin discretely opened the possibility of a purely animalistic origin for the human species He repeatedly insisted that the differences between humans and others were a question of degree only Sciences were however taken in the opposite direction where these differences cannot have been generated by the natural processes of biological evolution In The Animal in the Secret World of Darwin author Michel Bergeron discusses the effects on the sciences caused by the presence of questions on humanity only answerable with religious beliefs His investigation suggests that significant elements of perceived humanity have remained sufficiently narrowly defined to continue to agree with religious beliefs over the entire period starting with the scientific revolution centuries ago and reaching the present. Instead, he asks questions: could we be the simple animal who can only live on the belief not to be a simple animal? To alleviate these biases on the sciences of life, Bergeron advocates a different synthesis between Darwinism and Lamarckism. He further asks: How can sciences pretend to a cosmology neutral in terms of religious influence since all of its complex mathematical developments were made under the constraint that we can link the present directly to the Big Bang?
