Animal Life in Fresh Water Helen Mellanby, 2012-12-06 by Professor L E Eastham Formerly Professor of Zoology in the University of Sheffield Most books are written with the intention of supplying some particular need but few end with such single purpose Mrs Mellanby's is no exception for while the author planned this work to serve as a guide to the school pupil which function it fulfils in an admirable way it will also prove of value to the teacher the university student and the amateur naturalist While it may be argued that it is not the function of the Universities to teach Natural History in the commonly accepted sense it will always be the aim of Zoologists to know more about animals what they are and do where they live and why they live in particular environments It is unfortunate in view of the fact that the majority of students of Zoology enter the teaching profession that the increasing load of instruction in morphology physiology cytology genetics evolution and the like frequently makes a personal study of animal life in relation to environment almost impossible The fortunate ones visit the sea for a fortnight's course in Marine Ecology the others take posts in schools without even this respite and set about converting their academic learning to a school curriculum The result is an undesirable and often slavish imitation of university method in the school classroom

The Marvels of the World Rebecca Bushnell, 2021-03-12 Long before the Romantics embraced nature people in the West saw the human and nonhuman worlds as both intimately interdependent and violently antagonistic With its peerless selection of ninety eight original sources concerned with the natural world and humankind's place within it The Marvels of the World offers a corrective to the still prevalent tendency to dismiss premodern attitudes toward nature as simple or univocal Gathering together medical texts herbals and how to books as well as scientific religious philosophical and poetic works dating from antiquity to the dawn of the Enlightenment the anthology explores both mainstream and unconventional thinking about the natural world Its seven parts focus on philosophy and science plants animals weather and climate ways of inhabiting the land gardens and gardening and European encounters with the wider world Each section and each of the book's selections is prefaced with a helpful introduction by volume editor Rebecca Bushnell that weaves connections among these compelling pieces of the past The early writers collected here wrote with extraordinary openness about ways of coexisting with the nonhuman forces that shaped them Bushnell demonstrates even as they sought to control and exploit their environment Taken as a whole The Marvels of the World reveals how many of these early writers cared as much about the natural world as we do today Living in Water National Aquarium in Baltimore, 1987 GATE Zoology
