The Phrenological Journal and Life Illustrated, 1875 Carl Strehlow's 1909 Comparative Heritage Dictionary Anna Kenny, 2018-08-10 Carl Strehlow's comparative dictionary manuscript is a unique item of Australian cultural heritage it is a large collection of circa 7 600 Aranda 6 800 Luritja Luritja and 1 200 Dieri to German entries compiled at the beginning of the twentieth century at the Hermannsburg Mission in central Australia It is an integral part of Strehlow's ethnographic work on Aboriginal cultures that his German editor Baron Moritz von Leonhardi published as Die Aranda und Luritja Stämme in Zentral Australien Strehlow 1907 1920 in Frankfurt Strehlow and his editor had planned to publish a language study that included this comparative dictionary but it remained unpublished until now due to a number of complicated historical and personal circumstances of the main characters involved with the dictionary Strehlow's linguistic work is historically and anthropologically significant because it probably represents the largest and most comprehensive wordlist of Indigenous languages compiled in Australia during the early stages of contact. It is an important primary source for Luritja and Aranda speakers. Both languages are spoken in homes and taught in schools in central Australia. The reasons for presenting this work as a heritage dictionary that is as an exact transcription of the original form of the handwritten manuscript are to follow the Western Aranda people's wishes and to maintain its historical authenticity which will prove to be of great use to both Indigenous people and scholars interested in language.

Being Scioto Hopewell: Ritual Drama and Personhood in Cross-Cultural Perspective Christopher Carr, 2022-01-05. This book in two volumes breathes fresh air empirically, methodologically and theoretically into understanding the rich ceremonial lives, the philosophical religious knowledge and the impressive material feats and labor organization that distinguish Hopewell Indians of central Ohio and neighboring regions during the first centuries CE. The first volume defines cross-culturally for the first time the ritual drama as a genre of social performance. It reconstructs and compares parts of 14 such dramas that Hopewellian and other Woodland period peoples performed in their ceremonial centers to help the soul-like essences of their deceased make the journey to an afterlife. The second volume builds and critiques ten formal cross-cultural models of personhood and the self and infers the nature of Scioto Hopewell people's ontology. Two facets of their ontology are found to have been instrumental in their creating the intercommunity alliances and cooperation and gathering the labor required to construct their huge multicomunity ceremonial centers: a relational collective concept of the self defined by the ethical quality of the relationships one has with other beings and a concept of multiple soul-like essences that compose a human being and can be harnessed strategically to create familial-like ethical bonds of cooperation among individuals and communities. The archaeological reconstructions of Hopewellian ritual dramas and concepts of personhood and the self and of Hopewell people's strategic uses of these are informed by three large surveys of historic Woodland and Plains Indians narratives, ideas and rites about journeys to afterlives, the creatures who inhabit the cosmos and the nature and functions of soul-like essences coupled with rich contextual archaeological and bioarchaeological taphonomic analyses. The bioarchaeological taphonomic method of l'anthropologie de terrain new to North American archaeology is introduced and applied. In all the research in this book vitalizes a vision of an anthropology committed to native logic and motivation and skeptical of the imposition of Western world views and categories onto native peoples.

spiritual relationships between the cosmos and the human person with the famous image of the universal Man standing astride the cosmic spheres The second part examines the rewards for virtue and the punishments for vice mapped onto a geography of purgatory hellmouth and the road to the heavenly city At the end of each Hildegard writes extensive commentaries on the Prologue to John s Gospel Part 1 and the first chapter of Genesis Part 2 the only premodern woman to have done so Finally the third part tells the history of salvation imagined as the City of God standing next to the mountain of God s foreknowledge with Divine Love reigning over all Chambers 21st Century Dictionary Allied,
