Annals Of The Poets:

Romantic Writing and the Empire of Signs Karen Fang, 2010-02-02 Nineteenth century periodicals frequently compared themselves to the imperial powers then dissecting the globe and this interest in imperialism can be seen in the exotic motifs that surfaced in works by such late Romantic authors as John Keats Charles Lamb James Hogg Letitia Landon and Lord Byron Karen Fang explores the collaboration of these authors with periodical magazines to show how an interdependent relationship between these visual themes and rhetorical style enabled these authors to model their writing on the imperial project Fang argues that in the decades after Waterloo late Romantic authors used imperial culture to capitalize on the contemporary explosion of periodical magazines This proliferation of post Napoleonic writing often referencing exotic locales both revises longstanding notions about literary orientalism and reveals a remarkable synthesis of Romantic idealism with contemporary cultural materialism that heretofore has not been explored Indeed in interlocking case studies that span the reach of British conquest ranging from Greece China and Egypt to Italy and Tahiti Fang challenges a major convention of periodical publication While periodicals are usually thought to be defined by time this account of the geographic attention exerted by late Romantic authors shows them to be equally concerned with space With its exploration of magazines and imperialism as a context for Romantic writing culture and aesthetics this book will appeal not only to scholars of book history and reading cultures but also to those of nineteenth century British writing and history

Clio and the Poets David Levene, Nelis, 2017-09-11 The Augustan age was one in which writers were constantly reworking the Roman past and which was marked by a profound engagement of poets with the historians and historical techniques which were the main vehicle for the transmission of the image of the past to their day In this book seventeen leading scholars from Europe and America examine the fascinating interaction between such apparently diverse genres how the Augustan poets drew on or reacted against the historians presentation of the world and how conversely historians picked up and transformed poetic themes for their own ends With essays on poems from Horace s Odes to Ovid s Metamorphoses on authors from Virgil to Valerius Maximus it forms the most important topic so central to such a particularly relevant period of literary history
