What a Mighty Power We Can Be Theda Skocpol,Ariane Liazos,Marshall Ganz,2018-06-26 From the nineteenth through the mid twentieth centuries millions of American men and women participated in fraternal associations self selecting brotherhoods and sisterhoods that provided aid to members enacted group rituals and engaged in community service Even more than whites did African Americans embraced this type of association indeed fraternal lodges rivaled churches as centers of black community life in cities towns and rural areas alike Using an unprecedented variety of secondary and primary sources including old documents pictures and ribbon badges found in eBay auctions this book tells the story of the most visible African American fraternal associations The authors demonstrate how African American fraternal groups played key roles in the struggle for civil rights and racial integration Between the 1890s and the 1930s white legislatures passed laws to outlaw the use of important fraternal names and symbols by blacks But blacks successfully fought back Employing lawyers who in some cases went on to work for the NAACP black fraternalists took their cases all the way to the Supreme Court which eventually ruled in their favor At the height of the modern Civil Rights movement in the 1950s and 1960s they marched on Washington and supported the lawsuits through lobbying and demonstrations that finally led to legal equality This unique book reveals a little known chapter in the story of civic democracy and racial equality in America Subject Catalogue United States. War Dept. Library,1899 Quality of Life, Balance of Power and Nuclear Weapons, 2008 Aleksandr V.

Avakov,2008 It seems that public health expenditures as a share of total health expenditures has a stronger correlation with the comparative level and the rates of improvement of the main health care indicators than the absolute level measured as a percent of GDP of total health expenditures The data demonstrates that the US has the lowest public health expenditure of developed market economies and is increasingly lagging behind other countries by main health care indicators The proposed introduction of national health insurance in the US would probably mean some sort of tax increase The author therefore also seeks to shed light on modern ideological debates about the share of taxation in GDP and its influence on rates of growth

Nancy Marie Robertson, 2007 As the major national biracial women's organization the Young Women's Christian Association YWCA provided a unique venue for women to respond to American race relations during the first half of the twentieth century In Christian Sisterhood Race Relations and the YWCA 1906-46 Nancy Marie Robertson shows how women of both races employed different understandings of Christian sisterhood in their responses Although the YWCA was segregated at the local level African American women were able to effectively challenge white women over YWCA racial policies and practices Robertson argues that from 1906 through 1946 many white women in the association went from seeing segregation as compatible with Christianity and democracy to regarding it as a contradiction of those values These struggles laid the groundwork for the subsequent civil rights movement Her analysis relies not only on a large body of records documenting YWCA women at the national and local levels but also on autobiographical accounts and personal papers from women associated with the YWCA including Dorothy Height Lugenia Burns Hope Alice Dunbar Nelson Abby Aldrich Rockefeller and Lillian Smith A volume in the series Women in American History edited by Anne Firor Scott Susan Armitage Susan K Cahn and Deborah Gray White *Journal of Proceedings and Addresses of the ... The Life of Madie Hall Xuma Wanda A. Hendricks, 2022-10-25 Revered in South Africa as An African American Mother of the Nation Madie Beatrice Hall Xuma spent her extraordinary life immersed in global women's activism Wanda A Hendricks's biography follows Hall Xuma from her upbringing in the Jim Crow South to her leadership role in the African National Congress ANC and beyond Hall Xuma was already known for her social welfare work when she married South African physician and ANC activist Alfred Bitini Xuma. Becoming president of the ANC Women's League put Hall Xuma at the forefront of fighting racial discrimination as South Africa moved toward apartheid. Hendricks provides the long overlooked context for the events that undergirded Hall Xuma's life and work. As she shows, a confluence of history, ideas, and organizations both shaped Hall Xuma and centered her in the histories of Black women and women's activism and of South Africa and the United States.

Quality of Life, Balance of Power and Nuclear Weapons, 2009 Alexander V. Avakov, 2009. The foundations of power politics in the nuclear age: fundamental forces that drive events in the international news and seldom discussed factors that can shift whole economies or trigger wars may be discerned from the statistical tables presented in this novel yearbook first issued in 2008. This statistical annual presents fundamental data in three sections: 1. Quality of Life, 2. Balance of Power, and 3. Developed Market Economies since 1960. It contains data that is generally not available elsewhere. Sections one and two give statistics for 230 countries. The World Bank and Encyclopedia Britannica provide statistical data for a maximum of about 160 countries. The actual number of countries in World Bank statistical tables is even smaller. The C I A World Factbook gives data for about 230 countries but that data is limited in scope and is imprecise. Other statistical publications are even less satisfactory. The author has managed to increase the number of countries tallied by writing proprietary software utilizing statistical regressions, selecting data which first of all is important and second allows for high correlation coefficients for these regressions. Section two includes data about nuclear delivery systems and the number of nuclear warheads of all nuclear powers. This is based on information from reputable sources. Among others, it includes estimates of the Israeli nuclear arsenal which usually do not appear in the press. Official estimates of Russian military expenditures distributed by U.S. and British intelligence communities are methodologically flawed. Such estimates claim to give a picture of military expenditures of the countries of the world at market exchange rates at the same time they apparently cite Russian military expense figures at purchasing power parities, thus inflating these numbers in comparison to those of other countries. Such deceptive practices of the Anglo-American intelligence services are counterbalanced by presenting two different tables showing military expenditures: estimates both at market exchange rates and by purchasing power parities. Section three gives data on the topic of health care. It seems that public health expenditures as a share of total health expenditures has a stronger correlation with the comparative level and the rates of improvement of the main health care indicators than the absolute level measured as a percent of G D P of total health expenditures. The data demonstrates that the U.S. has the lowest public health expenditure of developed market economies and is increasingly lagging behind other countries by main health care indicators. The proposed introduction of national health insurance in the U.S. would probably mean some sort of tax increase. The author therefore also seeks to shed light on modern ideological debates about the share of taxation in G D P and its influence on rates of growth. Surprisingly enough, the empirical data for the developed market economies do not seem to support the popular idea that low taxes are strongly correlated with higher rates of growth depending on how the data are analyzed the appropriate correlations are either low or even the reverse of what is commonly believed Inventory of the Church Archives of New Jersey ,1940
