Annual Review Of Anthropology 1989:

Annual Review of Anthropology William H. Durham, 2000 To the Extreme Robert E. Rinehart, Synthia Sydnor, 2012-02-01 An international array of authors including some prominent extreme athletes like Jake Burton and Arlo Eisenberg look at a variety of issues and concerns within the new action extreme sports that are gaining popularity throughout the world For each sport an interpretation is presented through two essays one written by a scholar active in some aspect of research for the given activity and another by a practitioner athlete who writes from the inside out The juxtaposed essays confront questions about the essence of sport such as What is sport How does it originate and What is its use value and function This book offers a fascinating look at how twentieth and twenty first century sport forms emerge proliferate and take hold in a sport crazy world The Archaeology of Human Ancestry Stephen Shennan, James Steele, 2005-08-15 Human social life is constrained and defined by our cognitive and emotional dispositions which are the legacy of our foraging ancestors But how difficult is it to reconstruct the social systems and cultural traditions of those ancestors The Archaeology of Human Ancestry provides a stimulating and provocative answer in which archaeologists and biological anthropologists set out and demonstrate their reconstructive methods Contributors use observations of primates and modern hunter gatherers to illuminate the fossil and artefactual records Thematic treatment covers the evolution of group size group composition and the emotional structure of social bonds sexual dimorphism and the sexual division of labour and the origins of human cultural traditions The Archaeology of Human Ancestry is an essential introduction to the subject for advanced undergraduates and researchers in archaeology and biological anthropology It will also be used by workers in psychology sociology and feminist studies as a resource for understanding human social origins Annual Review of Anthropology Bernard J. Siegel, 1990 Annual compilation of critical articles from all areas of the discipline of anthropology Annual Review of Anthropology, 1997 Annual compilation of critical articles from all areas of the discipline of anthropology Dance and Authenticity in Israel and Palestine Elke Kaschl, 2003-01-01 Dance and Authenticity is an ethnography of dance performance and cultural form It describes how dabkeh a type of dance performed at Palestinian weddings became a model for the Israeli Jewish debkah as a means of affirming Israeli Jewish belonging and common society The Palestinian dabkeh in turn acquired nationalist meanings especially after the 1967 war and the occupation of the West Bank The book traces the history of these competing and conflicting dance forms basing the argument principally on the ethnographic study of two Palestinian and one Israeli Jewish dance group conducted between 1998 and 1999 The result is a fascinating parallel ethnography showing how the ethnography of dance forms contributes to evolving notions of collective national and political identity in a context of unequal power Alarming Reports Andrew Arno's, 2009-05-01 News stories provide an essential confirmation of our ideas about who we are what we have to fear and what to do about it a marketplace of ideas shopped by rational citizen decision makers but also a shared resource for grounding our contested narratives of identity in objective reality News as a fundamental social process comes into being not when an event takes place or when a report of the event is created but when that report becomes news to someone As it moves off the page into the community news discovers through its interpretations its reality in the lives of the consumers This book explores the path of news as it moves through the tangled labyrinth of social identities and asserted interests that lie beyond the page or screen The language and communication oriented study of news promises a salient area of investigation pointing the way to an expansion if not a redefinition of basic anthropological ideas and practices of ethnography participant observation and the field in the future of anthropological research

Father-Child Relations Barry S. Hewlett, Due to a greater involvement of American fathers in the direct care of their children in recent years interest in the impact and nature of the father s role in nurturing children has increased While studies about fathers in the industrialized literate West have proliferated little is known about the role of fathers in the preliterate non Western world This collection examines the diversity of paternal roles found in human cultures among various types of societies that are very peaceful and those that actively engage in warfare as a mode of existence Father Child Relations recognizes the importance of understanding both biological and cultural aspects of the father s role Many of the contributors utilize evolutionary or biosocial models including those of developmental psychology to examine the father s role while others rely upon the symbolic analysis of cultural and social anthropology One chapter is devoted to male infant relationships in nonhuman primates a further largely ignored comparative perspective The anthropologists who have contributed to this collection are field workers who have lived intimately over significant periods of time with the people about whom they are writing These research reports from the field have been edited to make them wholly accessible to the non specialist The contributors of this volume recognize that biology and ideology are intertwined both together influence the father s behavior and the effects of his behavior
