Managing the World Economy J. Mills, 2000-08-22 Managing the World Economy while recognizing how much has been achieved since the start of the Industrial Revolution challenges the view that much better results could have been attained It argues that faster economic growth and much better use of the available human talent could have been in the past and should be in the future achievable targets The reasons for the performance of the world economy over the last two hundred years being well below the achievable optimum stem mainly from misconceptions about macroeconomic policy which the book sets out to explain and correct

Meat Simon Fairlie, 2010

Meat A Benign Extravagance is a groundbreaking exploration of the difficult environmental ethical and health issues surrounding the human consumption of animals Garnering huge praise in the UK this is a book that answers the question should we be farming animals or not Not a simple answer but one that takes all views on meat eating into account It lays out in detail the reasons why we must indeed decrease the amount of meat we eat both for the planet and for ourselves and yet explores how different forms of agriculture including livestock shape our landscape and culture At the heart of this book Simon Fairlie argues that society needs to re orient itself back to the land both physically and spiritually and explains why an agriculture that can most readily achieve this is one that includes a measure of livestock farming It is a well researched look at agricultural and environmental theory from a fabulous writer and a farmer and is sure to take off where other books on vegetarianism and veganism have fallen short in their global scope Higher Education in Ethiopia Tebeje

Molla,2018-01-18 This book focuses on higher education in Ethiopia analysing persisting inequalities and policy responses against the backdrop of the extensive expansion and reform that the system has experienced in recent years Drawing on empirical data generated through interviews policy reviews and focus group discussions it explicates factors of structural inequality ranging from neoliberal policy orientations to repressive gender culture and geo political peripherality In a departure from conventional studies that consider policy a response to social problems the book takes a critical perspective to show the constitutive role of policy and explains how the representation of the problem of social inequality undermines equity policy outcomes in Ethiopian higher education Not only does the book problematise the framing of the problem of inequality in the system it also outlines strategies for designing transformative equity instruments In explaining structural factors of inequality and equity provisions the book productively combines sociological concepts with historical accounts and political economy insights Given the increased economic optimism associated with higher education in sub Saharan Africa and the neoliberal ideals underpinning much of the restructuring of the system in the region this is a timely and important contribution that sheds light on the social justice implications and consequences of such changes It offers fresh accounts of largely neglected qualitative cases of inequality making it a valuable read for students and researchers in the areas of Ethiopian education policy studies international and comparative education and international development Western
