Annual Review Of Ecology Systematics 2:

Narrow Roads of Gene Land: Volume 1: Evolution of Social Behaviour William Donald Hamilton, 1996 Vol 1 Advances in the Biology of Shrews II Joseph F. Merritt, Sara Churchfield, R. Hutterer, Boris I. Sheftel, 2005 Ecology of small mammals D.M. Stoddart, 2012-12-06 From their largely descriptive beginnings about a half century ago studies on the ecology of small mammals have mushroomed in number scope content and complexity Yet strangely or perhaps not so strangely if one considers the extent and complexity of ecological interactions the main problems for which the early workers sought answers still defy complete analysis and basic hypotheses remain untested if not even untestable The same holds true for so many branches of animal ecology that it seems to be the complexity of the concepts that frustrates efforts rather than the subject species Like all branches of science small mammal ecology has been subject to a series of fashionable approaches one following another as technology penetrates previously impregnable regions Doubtless the future development of our science will be punctuated by wave upon wave of new endeavour in whole fields that are perhaps even yet unidentified Answers to the complex questions which ecologists ask do not come easily Increasingly though they arise in direct proportion to the efforts expended upon their elucidation Many studies have achieved such a high level of elegance in terms of manpower and apparatus that there is a feeling that questions asked when such resources are unavailable are not worth asking Nothing could be further from the truth Many a complex model has failed fully to explain the phenomenon for which it was constructed because of a lack of basic field data on the species natural history , Ecological Versatility and Community Ecology Ralph C. MacNally, 1995-09-21 A comprehensive analysis of ecological specialisation and generalisation in natural communities first published in 1995 The Origin of Higher Taxa T. S. Kemp, 2016 This text discusses whether the origin of radically new kinds of organisms new higher taxa are the result of normal Darwinian evolution proceeding or whether unusual genetic processes and or special environmental circumstances are necessary

Evolution Of Life Histories Derek Roff, 1993-04-30 There are many different types of organisms in the world they differ in size physiology appearance and life history The challenge for evolutionary biology is to explain how such diversity arises The Evolution of Life Histories does this by showing that natural selection is the principal underlying force molding life history variation The book describes in particular the ways in which variation can be analyzed and predicted It covers both the genetic and optimization approaches to life history analysis and gives an overview of the general framework of life history theory and the mathematical tools by which predictions can be made and tested Factors affecting the age schedule of birth and death and the costs of reproduction are discussed The Evolution of Life Histories concentrates on those theoretical developments that have been tested experimentally It will interest both students and professionals in evolution evolutionary ecology mathematical and theoretical biology and zoology and entomology The Complete Capuchin Dorothy M. Frigaszy, Elisabetta Visalberghi, Linda M. Fedigan, 2004-06-21 Explores the complex nature of capuchins both in the wild and in captivity Critical Geographies Salvatore Engel-Di Mauro, 2008 Boreal Forests in the Face of Climate Change Miguel Montoro Girona, Hubert Morin, Sylvie Gauthier, Yves Bergeron, 2023-03-01 This open access book explores a new conceptual framework for the sustainable management of the boreal forest in the face of climate change. The boreal forest is the second largest terrestrial biome on Earth and covers a 14 million km² belt representing about 25% of the Earth's forest area. Two thirds of this forest biome is managed and supplies 37% of global wood production. These forests also provide a range of natural resources and ecosystem services essential to humanity. However, climate change is altering species distributions, natural disturbance regimes, and forest ecosystem structure and functioning. Although sustainable management is the main goal across the boreal biome, a novel framework is required to adapt forest strategies and practices to climate change. This collaborative effort draws upon 148 authors in summarizing the sustainable management of these forests and detailing the most recent experimental and observational results collected from across the boreal biome. It presents the state of sustainable management in boreal forests and highlights the critical importance of this biome in a context of global change because of these forests' key role in a range of natural processes including carbon sequestration, nutrient cycling, and the maintaining of biodiversity. This book is an essential read for academics, students, and practitioners involved in boreal forest management. It outlines the challenges facing sustainable boreal forest management within the context of climate change and serves as a basis for establishing new research avenues, identifying future research trends, and developing climate-adapted forest management plans.

Modeling Carbon Fluxes, Net Primary Production and Light Utilization in Boreal Forest Stands Scott J. Goetz, 1997-08 The use of satellite remote sensing for modeling net primary production (NPP) was evaluated in sixty boreal forest stands spanning a range of site conditions. The work included: i) estimating annual phenological dynamics and photosynthetically active radiation (PAR) interception with remotely sensed spectral measurements; ii) linking annually absorbed PAR (APAR) to measured NPP and quantifying variability in light use efficiency (En); iii) evaluating sources of variability in En via mechanistic modeling of ecophysiology and associated carbon fluxes, particularly through analyses of respiratory carbon costs in relation to assimilation gains (the R/A ratio); iv) assessing generalization of the results through an investigation of the evidence for evolutionary convergence in En, the R/A ratio, and assimilation per unit APAR (Eg). The analyses showed that observed variability in En reflects a decoupling of PAR harvesting and utilization, primarily as a result of differences in the R/A ratio. Links between En, the R/A ratio, and standing above-ground biomass were related to differences in the carbon energy costs associated with synthesis and maintenance of plant constituents and longevity, i.e., the payback period on investment in carbon gain. Estimating the R/A ratio from above-ground biomass in order to compensate for variability in En was found to be problematic, owing primarily to covariation of R and A with the amount of respiring biomass, i.e., sapwood and foliage. The analyses also showed that the differences in carbon costs between functional types (plants with related life history traits) resulted in convergence on Eg rather than En. Variability in Eg was, however, introduced by stomatal control at some stressed sites These findings were supported by the remote sensing and simulation modeling results and the synthesis of work related to evolutionary ecology The primary conclusions are that variability in light utilization in these boreal forest stands was determined largely by respiratory carbon costs and that NPP models based on light harvesting require augmentation with terms that reflect PAR utilization Possible methods to address these issues and their implications for NPP modeling over large areas are discussed

Handbook of Biological Control T. W. Fisher, Thomas S. Bellows, L. E. Caltagirone, D. L. Dahlsten, Carl B. Huffaker, G. Gordh, 1999-09-20 For many years the use of chemical agents such as pesticides and herbicides has been effective in controlling the many varieties of pests that infest both agricultural crops and backyard gardens However these pests are gradually becoming resistant to these agents because the agents themselves are acting as selective factors making the pests better and better able to resist and persist As a result the use of biological controlling agents is increasing This book is a comprehensive and authoritative handbook of biological control

Management in the Age of Digital Business Complexity Bill McKelvey, Renata Kaminska, Maria Paz Salmador, Nadine Escoffier, 2021-09-07 Management in the Age of Digital Business Complexity focuses on how the digital age is changing management and vastly speeding up complexity dynamics The recent coevolution of technologies has dramatically changed in just a few years how people and firms learn communicate and behave Consequently the process of how firms coevolve and the speed at which they coevolve has been dramatically changed in the digital age and managerial methods are lagging way behind Combining his own expertise with that of a number of specialist and international co authors McKelvey conveys how companies that fall behind digitally can quickly be driven out of business The book has been created for academics seeking to upgrade management thinking into the modern digital age and vastly improve the change capabilities of firms facing digital oriented competition

Climate Change 2014 - Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability: Regional Aspects Christopher B. Field, Vicente R. Barros, 2014-12-29 This latest Fifth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC will again form the standard reference for all those concerned with climate change and its consequences including students researchers and policy makers in environmental science meteorology climatology biology ecology atmospheric chemistry and environmental policy

Seeds, 3rd Edition Robert S. Gallagher, 2013-12-06 The 3rd edition of Seeds: The Ecology of Regeneration in Plant Communities highlights the many advances in the field of seed ecology and its relationship to plant community dynamics that have taken place in recent years. The new edition also features chapters on seed development and morphology, seed chemical ecology, implications of climate change on regeneration by seed, and the functional role of seed banks in agricultural and natural ecosystems. The book is aimed at advanced level students and researchers in the fields of seed science, seed ecology, and plant ecology.

The Wildlife Techniques Manual Nova J. Silvy, 2012-03 A standard text in a variety of courses, the Techniques Manual as it is commonly called, covers every aspect of modern wildlife management and provides practical information for applying the hundreds of methods described in its pages. To effectively incorporate the explosion of new information in the wildlife profession, this latest edition is logically organized into a two-volume set. Volume 1 is devoted to research techniques and Volume 2 focuses on management methodologies.

Terrestrial Ecosystems in a Changing World Josep G. Canadell, Diane E. Pataki, Louis F. Pitelka, 2007-01-10 Over 100 authors present 25 contributions on the impacts of global change on terrestrial ecosystems, including key processes of the earth system such as the CO₂ fertilization effect, shifts in disturbances and biome distribution, the saturation of the terrestrial carbon sink, and changes in functional biodiversity. Ecosystem services such as the production of wheat, pest control, and carbon storage in croplands and sensitive regions in the world threatened by rapid changes in climate and land use such as high latitudes, ecosystems, tropical forest in Southeast Asia, and ecosystems dominated by monsoon climate. The book also explores new research developments on spatial thresholds and nonlinearities, the key role of urban development in global biogeochemical processes, and the integration of natural and social sciences to address complex problems of the human environment system.
