Gonçalves, Peter T. F. Raggatt, 2013-01-01 This volume understands itself as an invitation to follow a fundamental shift in perspective away from the self contained I of Western conventions and towards a relational self where development and change are contingent on otherness In the framework of Dialogical Self Theory Hermans Hermans Gieser 2012 it is precisely the forms of interaction and exchange with others and with the world that determine the course of the self's development The volume hence addresses dialogical processes in human interaction from a psychological perspective bringing together previously separate theoretical traditions about the self and about dialogue within the innovative framework of Dialogical Self Theory The book is devoted to developmental questions and so broaches

one of the more difficult and challenging topics for models of a pluralist self the question of how the dynamics of multiplicity emerge and change over time This question is explored by addressing ontogenetic questions directed at the emergence of the dialogical self in early infancy as well as microgenetic questions addressed to later developmental dynamics in adulthood Additionally development and change in a range of culture specific settings and practices is also examined including the practices of mothering of migration and cross cultural assimilation and of doing psychotherapy
