Anthology of Musical Forms - Structure & Style (Expanded Edition) Leon Stein, 1999-11-27 Structure and Style first published in 1962 and expanded in 1979 fills the need for new ways of analysis that put 20th century music in perspective. It spans forms in use before 1600 through forms and techniques in use today. Anthology of Musical Forms provides musical examples of forms treated in Structure and Style. Some examples are analyzed throughout. Most are left for the student to analyze. These books reflect Leon Stein's impressive background as student musician and composer. Stein studied composition with Leo Sowerby, Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony, and orchestration with Eric DeLamarter, his assistant. He earned M. Mus. and Ph.D. degrees at DePaul University and was associated with its School of Music as director of the Graduate Division and chairman of the Department of Theory and Composition until his retirement in 1976. He has composed a wide variety of works including compositions for orchestra, chamber combinations, two operas, and a violin concerto.

Bach C.F. Abdy Williams, 2018-04-05 Reproduction of the original Bach by C. F. Abdy Williams

Bach Charles Francis Abdy Williams, 1900 Bach The position of Johann Sebastian Bach as one of a numerous family of musicians is unique. Of no other composer can it be said that his forefathers, contemporaries, and descendants were all musicians and not only musicians but holders of very important offices as such. All his biographers have therefore given some account of his family antecedents before proceeding to the history of his life, and I have found myself obliged to follow the same course. In other respects I have adopted the plan made use of by the older biographers of keeping the account of his life distinct from that of his compositions. Every biography is necessarily based on that written by his two sons four years after his death, published by Mizler, and the one published in 1802 by Forkel, who was intimate with the sons. Hilgenfeldt's account follows these, and in later years further information has been acquired from the searches into archives and other ancient documents by C. H. Bitter and Philipp Spitta. Any details concerning the life and works of this remarkable man are interesting, and it is probable that researches will be continued for some time to come. Thus last year 1898 a celebration took place at Ohrdruf in memory of Bach's school career there, and Dr. Friedrich Thomas took the opportunity of publishing some details of the Bach family which had escaped Spitta. The name of Bach is revered by Thuringian organists, and I this year had interesting conversations with his successors at Arnstadt and Muhlhausen: Herr Kellermann and Herr Muller. But the chief music seller at Arnstadt told me that Bach's music is out of date; no one has now any interest in such old-fashioned compositions.
