Chinese History A Manual Revised And Enlarged:

Chinese History Endymion Porter Wilkinson, 2000 Endymion Wilkinson's bestselling manual of Chinese history has long been an indispensable guide to all those interested in the civilization and history of China. In this latest edition, now in a bigger format, its scope has been dramatically enlarged by the addition of one million words of new text. Twelve years in the making, the new manual introduces students to different types of transmitted, excavated, and artifactual sources from prehistory to the twentieth century. It also examines the context in which the sources were produced, preserved, and received, the problems of research and interpretation associated with them, and the best, most up-to-date secondary works. Because the writing of history has always played a central role in Chinese politics and culture, special attention is devoted to the strengths and weaknesses of Chinese historiography. Chinese History, Volume 1 Endymion Wilkinson, 2022-05-03 The sixth edition of Chinese History: A New Manual, revised and expanded to two volumes, includes the latest developments in digital tools and the ancillary disciplines essential for work on Chinese history. Volume 1 covers topics ranging from Language to Technology. Volume 2 presents primary and secondary sources chronologically by period. Handbook of Christianity in China Nicolas Standaert, R. G. Tiedemann, 2009-12-01 The second volume on Christianity in China covers the period from 1800 to the present day, dealing with the complexities of both Catholic and Protestant aspects. China in European Encyclopaedias, 1700-1850 Georg Lehner, 2011-05-10 This book shows the ways in which English, French, and German eighteenth and early nineteenth century encyclopaedias dealt with things Chinese, offering an analysis of the broad variety of sources and an overview of the main strands of discourse on China. Beacon Fire and Shooting Star Xiaofei Tian, 2020-10-26 The Liang dynasty (502-557) is one of the most brilliant and creative periods in Chinese history and one of the most underestimated and misunderstood. Under the Liang, literary activities such as writing, editing, anthologizing, and cataloguing were pursued on an unprecedented scale, yet the works of this era are often dismissed as decadent and no more than a shallow prelude to the glories of the Tang. This book is devoted to contextualizing the literary culture of this era, not only the literary works themselves but also the physical process of literary production, such as the copying and transmitting of texts, activities such as book collecting, anthologizing, cataloguing, and various forms of literary scholarship, and the intricate interaction of religion, particularly Buddhism, and literature. Its aim is to explore the impact of social and political structure on the literary world. A Stairway to Heaven: Daoist Self-Cultivation in Early Modern China Paul van Enkevort, 2024-11-04 By the eleventh century, communities of religious practitioners in China had developed a theory and practice of meditative self-cultivation that combined the so-called Three Teachings. By the seventeenth century, Wu Shouyang created a synthesis of the various lineages of this inner alchemy, combining it with elements from Buddhism and Confucianism. By the late nineteenth century, his writings had become bestsellers in the genre and his became the standard account of this tradition. This first book-length English language study of Wu Shouyang's life and works introduces his remarkable life and formulates answers to fundamental questions about this important tradition The Wall Behind China's Open Door Jeanne Boden, 2008 Exploring Confucianism communism Taoism and a number of other societal influences in the commercial and corporate culture of China today this handbook serves as a manual for people working with the Chinese and helps businesspeople gain a better understanding of the many aspects of Chinese intercultural interaction and cooperation This resource offers a comprehensive cultural and historical background on building relationships with China by weaving expert knowledge with practical techniques on how to successfully navigate the Chinese business environment and its rules of etiquette The Sage Lost Soul John Makeham, 2020-10-26 Since the mid 1980s Taiwan and mainland China have witnessed a sustained resurgence of academic and intellectual interest in ruxue Confucianism variously conceived as a form of culture an ideology a system of learning and a tradition of normative values This discourse has led to a proliferation of contending conceptions of ruxue as well as proposals for rejuvenating it to make it a vital cultural and psycho spiritual resource in the modern world This study aims to show how ruxue has been conceived in order to assess the achievements of this enterprise to identify which aspects of ru thought and values academics find viable and why to highlight the dynamics involved in the ongoing cross fertilization between academics in China and Taiwan and to examine the relationship between these activities and cultural nationalism Four key arguments are developed First the process of intellectual cross fertilization and rivalry between scholars has served to sustain academic interest in ruxue Second contrary to conventional wisdom party state support in the PRC does not underpin the continuing academic discourse on ruxue Third cultural nationalism rather than state nationalism better explains the nature of this activity Fourth academic discourse on ruxue provides little evidence of robust philosophical creativity To Become a God Michael J. Puett, 2020-10-26 Evidence from Shang oracle bones to memorials submitted to

Western Han emperors attests to a long lasting debate in early China over the proper relationship between humans and gods One pole of the debate saw the human and divine realms as separate and agonistic and encouraged divination to determine the will of the gods and sacrifices to appease and influence them The opposite pole saw the two realms as related and claimed that humans could achieve divinity and thus control the cosmos This wide ranging book reconstructs this debate and places within their contemporary contexts the rival claims concerning the nature of the cosmos and the spirits the proper demarcation between the human and the divine realms and the types of power that humans and spirits can exercise It is often claimed that the worldview of early China was unproblematically monistic and that hence China had avoided the tensions between gods and humans found in the West By treating the issues of cosmology sacrifice and self divinization in a historical and comparative framework that attends to the contemporary significance of specific arguments Michael J Puett shows that the basic cosmological assumptions of ancient China were the subject of far more debate than is generally thought

Articulated Ladies Paul Rouzer,2020-10-26 This volume analyzes the representation of gender and desire in elite male authored literary texts in China dating from roughly 200 B C until 1000 A D Above all it discusses the intimate relationship between the representation of gender and the political and social self representations of elite men and shows where gender and social hierarchies cross paths Paul Rouzer argues that when male authors articulated themselves as women the resulting articulation was inevitably influenced by this act of identification Articulated women are always located within a non existent liminal space between ostensible object and ostensible subject a focus of textual desire both through possession and through identification Nor in male authored texts is this articulation ever fully resolved the potential of multiple interpretations is continually present

Allegories of Desire Susan Blakely Klein,2020-10-26 One of the more intriguing developments within medieval Japanese literature is the incorporation into the teaching of waka poetry of the practices of initiation ceremonies and secret transmissions found in esoteric Buddhism The main figure in this development was the obscure thirteenth century poet Fujiwara Tameaki grandson of the famous poet Fujiwara Teika and a priest in a tantric Buddhist sect Tameaki's commentaries and teachings transformed secular texts such as the Tales of Ise and poetry anthologies such as the Kokin waka shu into complex allegories of Buddhist enlightenment These commentaries were transmitted to his students during elaborate initiation ceremonies In later periods Tameaki's specific ideas fell out of vogue but the habit of interpreting poetry allegorically continued This book examines the contents of these commentaries as well as the qualities of the texts they addressed that lent themselves to an allegorical interpretation the political economic and religious developments of the Kamakura period that encouraged the development of this method of interpretation and the possible motives of the participants in this school of interpretation Through analyses of six esoteric commentaries Susan Blakeley Klein presents examples of this interpretive method and discusses its influence on subsequent texts both elite and popular

Evil and/or/as the Good Brook Ziporyn, 2020-10-26 Other than the devil there is no Buddha other than the Buddha there is no devil The Chinese monk Siming Zhili 960-1028 uttered this remark as part of his justification for his self immolation An exposition of the intent implications and resonances of this one sentence this book expands and unravels the context in which the seeming paradox of the ultimate identity of good and evil is to be understood In analyzing this idea Brook Ziporyn provides an overview of the development of Tiantai thought from the fifth through the eleventh centuries in China and

Text-making in Early China Hanmo Zhang,2018-10-08 This book is a timely response to a rather urgent call to seek an updated methodology in rereading and reappraising early Chinese texts in light of newly discovered early writings For a long time the concept of authorship in the formation and transmission of early Chinese texts has been misunderstood The nominal author who should mainly function as a guide to text formation and interpretation is considered retrospectively as the originator and writer of the text This book illustrates that although some notions about the text as the author s property began to appear in some Eastern Han texts a strict correlation between the author and the text results from later conceptions of literary history Before the modern era there existed a conceptual gap between an author and a writer A pre modern Chinese text could have had both an author and a writer or even multiple authors and multiple writers This work is the first study addressing these issues by more systematically emphasizing the connection of the text the author and the religious and sociopolitical settings in which these issues were embedded It is expected to constitute a palpable contribution to Chinese studies and the discipline of philology in general Space, Time, Myth, and Morals: A Selection of Jao Tsung-i's

Studies on Cosmological Thought in Early China and Beyond Tsung-i Jao,2022-09-12 The articles assembled in this volume present an important selection of Professor Jao Tsung i s research in the field of the early Chinese intellectual tradition especially as it concerns the human condition Whether his focus is on myth religion philosophy or morals Jao consistently aims to describe how the series of developments broadly associated with the Axial Age unfolded in China He is particularly interested in showing how early China had developed its own notion of transcendence as well as a system of prediction and morals that enabled man to act autonomously without recourse to divine providence
