Digital Collections Suzanne Keene, 2012-09-11 Suzanne Keene's pioneering book shows how museums and other cultural organizations fit into the new world of information and electronic communications and most importantly how they can take advantage of what it has to offer. By using new technology museums can build knowledge bases around information about collections. A collection object can be the central link for information about past and present places, people, and concepts, technologies, ways of working, and evidence of the natural world. Digital Collections explains how this vision can be realized. Sound, video, and animations can be digitized and developed as a central resource that can be drawn on for many varied access routes via the World Wide Web, CD-ROMs, through on-gallery screens, and other future products still in development. These technological capabilities raise many compelling issues that need to be understood in order to successfully develop information collections. In this book Suzanne Keene reviews these issues clearly and comprehensively. Her accompanying Click Through Guide provides the latest news and links to Internet information. Suzanne Keene is a senior manager of museum collections and information at the Science Museum, London. She led the UK LASSI project to select a collections information system for UK museums. This, with her experience in directing information technology and multimedia projects, means that she is accustomed to translating the highly technical concepts of information technology into high-level issues for senior and strategic management.

Private Standards in the United States and European Union Markets for Fruit and Vegetables Cora Dankers, 2007-01-01 Over the past 20 years the number of standards and certification programmes for agricultural production has grown rapidly. Producers who want to export are confronted not only by a plethora of import regulations but also within import countries by different niche markets for which specific requirements have to be fulfilled. This report gives an overview of standards and certification programmes relevant for fruit and vegetable producers and exporters in developing countries with a focus on the markets of the United States of America and the European Union. In addition, it gives an overview of current analytical work on standards and trade reviews, major assistance programmes related to standards, and provides recommendations for further research.

Cognitive Social Psychology Gordon B. Moskowitz, 2013-05-13 A comprehensive overview of the mechanisms involved in how cognitive processes determine thought and behavior toward the social world. Cognitive Social Psychology examines cognition as a motivated process wherein cognition and motivation are seen as intertwined. It reviews the latest research on stereotyping, prejudice, and the ability to control these phenomena, invaluable information to managers who need to prevent against bias in the workplace, and provides a current analysis of classic problems/issues in social psychology such as cognitive dissonance, the fundamental attribution error, social identity, stereotyping, social comparison, heuristic processing, the self-concept, assimilation and contrast effects, and goal pursuit. Intended for psychology and management students as well as social cognitive and industrial/organizational psychologists in both academic and applied settings. This new book is also an ideal text for courses in social

Livestock and Meat Situation , 1976 The Livestock and Meat Situation , 1976 Reforms in Long-Term Care Policies in Europe Costanzo Ranci, Emmanuele Pavolini, 2012-11-08 Over the last two decades many changes have happened to the social welfare policies of various industrial countries Citizens have seen their pensions unemployment benefits and general healthcare policies shrink as belt tightening measures are enforced But in contrast long term care has seen a general growth in public financing an expansion of beneficiaries and more generally an attempt to define larger social responsibilities and related social rights The aim of this book is to describe and interpret the changes introduced in long term care policies in Western Europe The volume argues that recent reforms have brought about an increasing convergence in LTC policies Most of the new programs have developed a new general approach to long term care based on a better integration of social care and health care The book explores increasing public support given to family care work in the past the family would take care of the elderly or infirm and increasing growth and recognition of a extended social care market by which care has shifted from a moral obligation based on family reciprocity to a paid professional activity A new social care arrangement has therefore been developing in Western countries based on a new mix of family obligations market provision and public support In order to understand such changes this analysis will take into account the social and economical impact of these reforms
