This is an original song by reggae composer Randy Stonehill. The percussion parts are fully notated but need not be followed exactly. The chorus sings homophonically with rhythmic punch, "Shut de do, keep out de devil. Shut de do, keep de devil in the night. Shut de do, keep out de devil, light de candle ev'rythin's alright." Section solos tell how Jesus will provide the holy armor to protect against the power of the devil.

McCall, Marty; David Maddux; Mmunga Mw Enebulongo; Amakulu Yumu Mukalay (composers); David Maddux (arranger). O Sifwani Mungu. SATTB, SAB (chamber choir), male and female solos, percussion (cabasa, agogo bells or cowbell, tambourine, shaker, tom toms). Swahili and English. Duration 4:45. Level: moderately difficult. Word Music #3010467168.

Two songwriters from Zaire collaborated with Marty McCall on this song based on McCall's global text, "All creatures of our God and King, lift up your voice and let us sing!" The form is call-and-response. The composition begins with a section for male solo and choir in free tempo. Then, percussion instruments enter one by one, each with its own ostinato rhythmic pattern, creating a tremendous rhythmic drive. Although the melody is predominantly stepwise, it is difficult to sing due to the long chain of syncopations.

Zimbabwe

Maraire, Dumisani (arranger). Kamukama. SATB, percussion (hand claps, rattles, drum). Shona language (includes detailed performance notes, pronunciation guide, and translation). Duration 2:00. Level: moderate. World Music Press.

This lively dance song takes the form of a drama. The scene involves an old man who likes to drink so much that he does not care about dressing well or buying new clothes. The men of the beer hall attempt to discipline him through song, in typical Shona fashion. The arrangement is meant to be improvised, using whatever instruments are available, for as long a time as one can be creative. The basses sing an ostinato that invites audience participation. The difficult words are set in a typical meter pattern from Zimbabwe: $\frac{3}{4}$, subdivided into 2+2+2+3+3. The percussion pattern adds an even more complex rhythmic dimension.

Steinel,1985 Southern Division Newsletter American Choral Directors Association,1991 Sound Advice Jean Ashworth Bartle,2003-03-06 Sound Advice is a valuable resource for college students beginning teachers and experienced conductors of children s choirs It covers the vast array of skills needed by today s conductor and will benefit all choir directors who want their choirs to reach a higher level of artistry This book will be useful on many levels for the college student studying the child voice and elementary teaching methods for the teacher beginning to direct choirs in schools synagogues churches and communities for experienced children's choir directors who wish to know more about orchestral repertoire for treble voices conducting an orchestra and preparing a children's choir to sing a major work with a professional orchestra. The underlying educational philosophy is sound; the author sees development of musicianship through singing as the primary goal of a children's choir program. This philosophy differs dramatically from the traditional concept of the conductor as all-knowing and the singers as receptacles. An outstanding aspect of the book is how the author leads the reader to an understanding of how to teach musicianship. Developing literacy in the choral setting is a mysterious, amorphous process to many conductors, but the author clearly outlines this important process with practical suggestions, well-documented examples, and a clear reading style which will reach readers on many levels. The comprehensive repertoire, skill-building sheets, and programs for all types of children's choirs will provide teachers with immediate and highly valuable resources. Associations'
