performing genome epigenome transcriptome proteome and metabolome studies and their applications in seed development Bioinformatics and computational tools are also playing important contributions in the large scale genome wide systems level analysis modeling and predictions to identify and characterize the underpinning mechanisms that support seed formation A holistic understanding of the complexities and interactions that drive seed development is becoming increasingly possible with the application of omics tools to decipher gene protein and metabolite networks In the proposed Research Topic we highlight current advances in genomics proteomics lipidomics metabolomics metagenomics transcriptomics and phenomics studies of seed development in both model and crop species We aim to further elucidate how these key genetic regulators and pathway genes act together to control cell division patterning differentiation and storage reserve accumulation during seed development how these critical processes coordinate to define the seed as a whole and how the genetic and regulatory networks function to generate tremendous natural diversity in the size number and compositional aspects of plant seeds
